

Education Of Parents Is Declared Essential

EDUCATOR

Recognized as one of the leading educators in California, Dr. Gertrude C. Laws, first assistant chief of the state department of parental education, last night gave the first of a series of six weekly lectures before the Santa Ana Teachers' institute. She is also conducting classes in parental education two days each week at Santa Ana high school and junior college.

"Adolescent Problems" will follow on November 13, and "Modern Psychologies and Our Job" on November 20.

Characterizing the present program of parental education as one of the means whereby modern society is attempting to solve some of the problems of modern behavior, Dr. Gertrude C. Laws, who is a guest at St. Ann's inn while conducting her weekly two-day classes at Santa Ana high school and junior college, today pointed out, in an interesting interview accorded a Register representative, the fact that education was daily growing in favor as a means of fostering and improving the essential decency of the race.

"We have tried punishing, legislating and preaching decency into ourselves," Dr. Laws declared. "Our schools and founded upon precepts and admonitions. Our laws are a series of 'don'ts.' And everything, while it may have helped in minor ways, has failed in the aggregate. Now we are turning to education, and beginning at the very fountainhead—the parents."

Dr. Laws, who is assistant chief in the state bureau of parental education under Dr. Herbert Stotz, was speaker last night at the first meeting of the Santa Ana Teachers' institute, where she addressed an audience of approximately 750 educators and parents on the "Need of Self-Expression." So close was the attention paid her and so warm the response to her inspiring talk that J. A. Cranston, city superintendent of schools and head of the institute, has completed arrangements for a series of weekly lectures to which any interested parents in the city will be welcome.

The next two of these October 23, and 30, will be given at the high school from 4 to 6 o'clock, in accordance with a concerted request from the teachers to change to the late afternoon hours from the announced time of 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock. "Education for Human Discipline" will be considered at these meetings, while at the next on November 6, the theme will be "Organized Education and Growth."

Do You Realize—

—that I can't make soup for a sick grasshopper repairing just your watch. I've got to have you and your friends and your friends' friends or the stuff is off, and in order to get this bunch of people together, I've got to give them service, and merit their confidence.

with the state co-operating in both movements.

"With the co-operation we are daily gaining from educators and parents throughout the state it begins to look as though our ideas were to bear splendid fruit, but men must first rid themselves of the prevailing idea that lectures on parental education are going up and down the state telling them how to bring up their children! Of course that is not the idea back of our work—it harks back to my statement about legislating decency into our lives. Ours is not a work of child training, but of parent-training. Outstanding problems of child welfare will be more easily solved through parental education than by any other means."

When questioned as to co-operation from Parent-Teacher associations and the value of that organization, Dr. Laws declared that it had possibilities that were absolutely boundless.

"There is nothing impossible of accomplishment by a force made up of our educators and our parents when they forget petty politics, and remember only the wider fields of their work," she stated.

There were approximately 70 persons registered for study at Dr. Laws' class yesterday morning in the high school and an even larger number was anticipated for the one conducted today. The educator will return to Santa Ana each Wednesday and Thursday for the next two months, at which time the current courses will be completed, when she will immediately enter upon a second 10-week series. Environment and home conditions, methods of discipline, the development of social and racial relationships, the effect of physical conditions on a child's mental and moral character, and many other equally interesting subjects will be considered in the lecture series.

Business Good In Southland, Says Chain Store Head

That the lack of rain was being reflected in the clothing and footwear departments of their stores by a slight falling off in volume as compared with previous years, but that on a whole business conditions were good, especially in the Southern California territory, was the statement made today by R. H. Glassley, general manager of the Oakland district for Montgomery and Ward, who is in Santa Ana on a tour of his district which embraces all of California, Nevada and western Arizona.

Glassley, accompanied by F. L. King, territory chain store manager, arrived here last night and is leaving today for Huntington Park. "We are very much pleased with the success of the Santa Ana store, which has been in operation about a year," the manager stated. "We have found on our tour that conditions in Southern California are a little better than in the big valleys. We have heard about the fashion show which was put on here all over the state."

contending neither he nor Eyanson had violated any law.

Bingham said he had read a statement by Chairman Caraway in the newspapers indicating prosecutions might be instituted, and "I wonder how long I was going to stay in jail or what fine I would have to pay."

Bingham then told how he had taken Eyanson into executive sessions of the finance committee where the bill was being secretly written.

"He merely whispered to me when I asked him questions," Bingham continued. "He never spoke out loud. His conduct was exemplary."

After Bingham had outlined Eyanson's labors as his confidential secretary, Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, observed: "He was the kind of man apparently who could serve two masters."

"I do not think that is a fair remark," objected Bingham, "we served the people of Connecticut. For instance he spent just as much time on tobacco and fisheries as he did on manufacturers."

"Was he on the government payroll at which time the current receiving money from the Manufacturers' association?" asked Senator Robinson, Republican, Indiana.

"Technically he received the money from the government as he signed the receipt for it, but he brought it to me and I turned it over to the clerk who had resigned temporarily in order that Mr. Eyanson might be subject to senate discipline."

"But as the record stands now, he did receive money from the senate at the same time he was employed by private interests?"

"Yes."

"Do you think that was proper?" Caraway broke in.

"If he should have kept the government money I think it might have been improper. If there was anything wrong about it I am to blame not Mr. Eyanson."

SOLV'D AT LAST

GENEVA, Ill., Oct. 17.—Why a man sings in the bathroom while taking his morning ablutions has finally been solved by the Newcombe-Hawley laboratory of the United Reproducers Corporation here. The narrowness of the bathroom sets up waves which make the feeble tones of weak singers sound majestic and more sonorous. The proud male finds here the only place where his singing really suits himself, so he cuts loose with his vocal renditions.

TAX COLLECTOR SORRY, BUT HE CAN'T ACCEPT PAYMENTS ON TAX BILLS UNTIL MONDAY

Believe it or not, County Tax Collector J. C. Lamb is worried because property owners have been trying to pay their tax bills and he has not been able to accept the money. But anyone who wishes to enjoy the experience of having his tax payment refused had better get it in before next Monday.

Lamb explained that Monday is the first day on which he legally can accept tax money. Under the law he can't present a bill, accept the money or give a receipt until next Monday. And that is why he has been forced to bring a tear or two to the eyes of a few property owners who tried to make their payments ahead of time.

The tax collector intimated that he felt as bad as anyone else over the situation, but what could he do about it? The law is the law. However, he will endeavor to make up for any disappointments that may have occurred and on Monday will show the county with somewhere between 53,000 and 8,000 tax bills. Bills for property owners residing outside the county already are in the mail, he said today.

HELD TO ANSWER ON ARSON CHARGE

Frank Ortega, arrested Tuesday on an arson charge, after he is asserted to have set fire to his home on West Fifth street, waived his preliminary examination in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court this morning. Mrs. Newton was charged with mortgaging $1500 worth of oranges when the oranges already had been mortgaged to the First National bank.

Ortega is alleged to have sprinkled gasoline in several places in the house before the fire was started. The house was only slightly damaged by the blaze, the efficient work of the fire department saving it.

Rousselle And Sherman Leave Soon For Tahiti

A. B. Rousselle, of this city, and H. L. Sherman, of Balboa, had completed plans today for a four-month tour to Tahiti and Fiji Islands.

The travellers will depart from San Francisco on October 28, going directly to Tahiti. Later they will go to Auckland, Sydney and Suva.

The two men were together on a long journey last year and are looking forward to another interesting trip.

Mrs. Rousselle will remain here, but will meet her husband and Sherman in Honolulu on Feb. 15, 1930.

Charge Of Grand Theft Dismissed

At the request of the complaining witness, the First National bank of Santa Ana, the case against Mrs. Blanche Newton, charged with grand theft, was dismissed in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court this morning. Mrs. Newton was charged with mortgaging $1500 worth of oranges when the oranges already had been mortgaged to the First National bank.

STANTON

STANTON, Oct. 17.—C. Fleming has sold 2 1/2 acres for J. Reckinger to Albert Carr of Santa Ana who will build soon and expects to put in a chicken ranch.

W. L. Laughlin is building a house on Star tract No. 2. Mr. and Mrs. Harder are rushing work on the lots they recently purchased at the intersection of Stanton boulevard and Clair avenue. A week ago they put up a tent which they used until a garage was built and now the foundation for a new market is being laid.

S. Murato has purchased the warehouse on the west side of Stanton boulevard at the railroad track and is enlarging and remodeling it for a storage plant for chili peppers. The building was owned by the Vegetable Union company and used for packing and shipping vegetables.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Maurer and Walter Maurer, in company with Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hughes, of Long Beach, went fishing at Newport Beach Saturday. They caught 200 mackerel off the pier.

Mrs. M. B. Curtis spent last week in the home of her son, Roy Curtis, and wife in Fullerton while Mr. and Mrs. Curtis took a trip to San Diego.

HUGE BOOTLEG RING SMASHED BY OFFICIALS

millions of dollars of liquor and made 30 arrests.

James Murphy, listed as one of the board of directors of the ring, which met in a regular business office in uptown New York, has been located in Montreal and is on his way back here to give himself up, Watts announced.

Murphy was sought last night after the raids. He is believed to have been "traffic manager" for the laborate organization, coordinating its activities in Canada and Bermuda and directing operations of the ring's boats at sea and the fleets of speedboats and trucks which landed and distributed wet cargoes.

Although only 34 men were named in the indictments on which the raids were made, Watts said at least 100 and perhaps 150 more men were in the employ of the ring. At least 30 were required to man the seagoing craft on the thirteenth.

and the truckage system used 40 more. Probably scores more were employed on the speedboats and at the roadhouses to which the liquor was brought and as guards. Watts also expressed belief that the smashed ring was a merger of several large combinations which formerly operated independently. Alexander P. MacPhee, federal prohibition administrator for the Philadelphia district, said he doubted "Annie" Kessler, reputed leader of the smashed ring, was its "real brains." Kessler, who has already served a term in Atlanta prison for liquor conspiracy, was among those captured yesterday.

"There are others higher up than Kessler," MacPhee said. "Of that I am certain."

Yesterday's raids were only the beginning of a great drive against bootleggers in which the next offensive probably will be against the fleet of rum ships anchored off the coast, MacPhee said.

He left his boyhood home on the thirteenth day of the month, married on the thirteenth, is the father of 13 children, was operated on for appendicitis on Friday the thirteenth, and escaped a powder explosion on the thirteenth.

'COLONELS' FOR FUND CAMPAIGN ARE ANNOUNCED

Further progress in the organization of the corps of Community Chest workers for the financial drive next month was revealed today with the announcement of the staff of aides for Mrs. Minnie Holmes, head of the women's division, and W. H. Spurgeon Jr., head of the men's division.

Mrs. Holmes has secured the assistance of Mrs. C. F. Smith as assistant chairman and the following women have consented to act as colonels in charge of five teams each: Miss Mabel Larrick, Mrs. William M. Smart, Mrs. Robert G. Horn and Mrs. Elizabeth Dana.

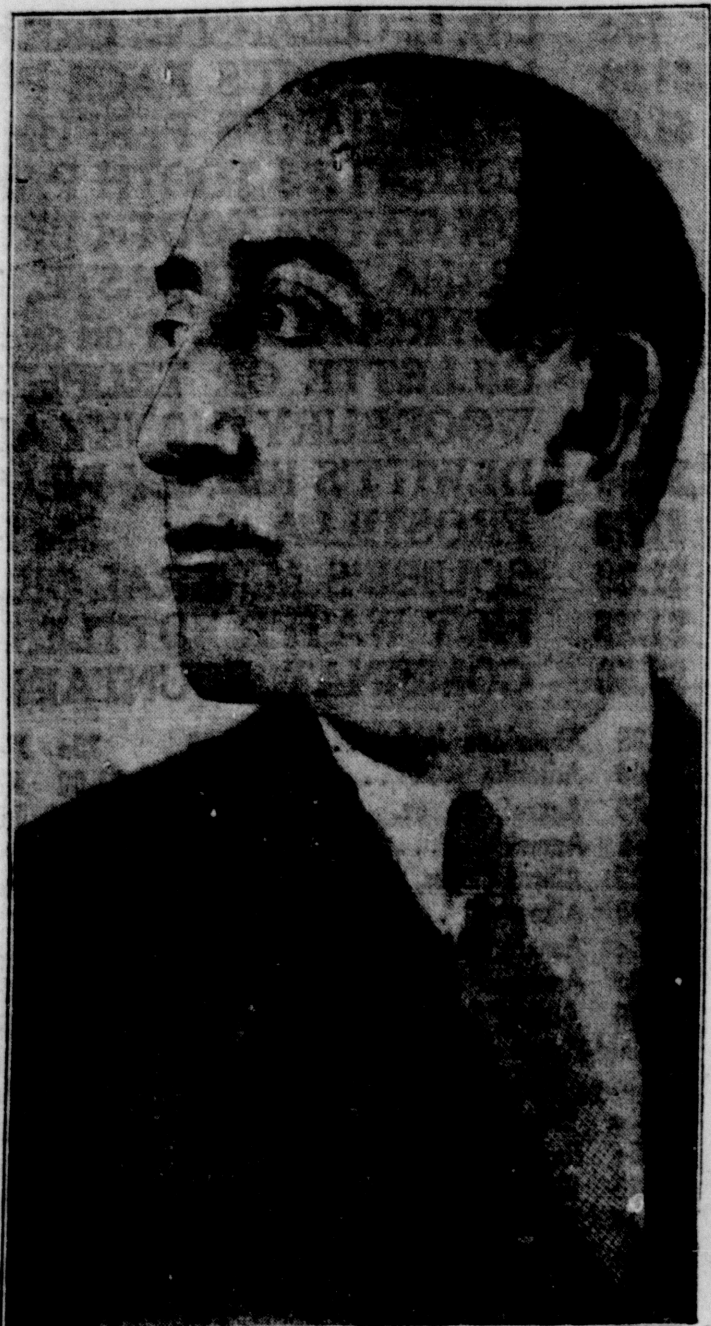

Colonels announced by Spurgeon for the men's division include W. K. Hilliard, J. G. Mitchell, Judge J. E. Tucker and Robert Hernandez.

The newly commissioned colonels together with the division leaders and Chest officials, will hold a meeting in the Chest headquarters in the Spurgeon building at 4:30 this afternoon to plan further organization and lay the foundations for the successful culmination of the intensive, four-day campaign that will start November 12.

Chest officials have been hard at work for the last few days working on lists and preparing letters that will go to some 650 persons in the community as preparatory work for the drive. The fact that it entails considerable effort is seen in the statement issued today by R. R. Miller, secretary-manager of the Chest. "It is doubtful if the officers and campaign manager of the Community Chest realized how much physical work lay ahead of them when they were induced to assume their duties with the Chest for the coming year," he said, referring to the fact that Clyde C. Downing, campaign manager; W. A. Taylor, president, and W. H. Spurgeon Jr., vice president, have just finished signing 650 letters

GIRL'S STATUS IN DELINQUENCY CASE UNKNOWN

With the court unable to determine whether Isabel F. Gonzales, 15, should be allowed to testify against Pascual Zuniga, the man whom the defense claims is her husband, who is charged with contributing to her delinquency by taking her from her home on Washington avenue here to Arlington, where he is said to have lived with her, the case of Zuniga was continued again this morning in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court.

The case had been set for last Tuesday, at which time the state attempted to use the girl as a witness against Zuniga. The case was continued until today while the district attorney's office looked up parallel cases to cite. This morning a continuance was asked.

According to the complaint in the case, Zuniga on October 4 took the girl away from her mother to Arlington. The complaining witness in the case is the girl's mother, Mrs. Romula F. Gonzales. Justice Morrison said today that the case would be heard tomorrow morning.

It would cause the man to be a cripple. Some stated that it would cause a hump on the back, others that the hump would be on the chest.

THREE INJURED AS AUTO STRIKES POLE

Three persons were reported injured when an automobile, driven by Mae Sowers, 807 Chestnut street, Anaheim, left the road, one-half mile south of Tustin, on the state highway, yesterday, and crashed into a telephone pole.

Miss Sowers suffered a broken leg and Alta Menth, 136 North Lemon street, Anaheim, and William C. Herford, of San Clemente, passengers in the machine, were cut and bruised about their faces. They were given medical treatment in a Santa Ana hospital.

J. D. Adams, state traffic officer, reported the accident.

SAN CLEMENTE

SAN CLEMENTE, Oct. 17.—Bob Hanson, son of Ole Hanson, founder and builder of San Clemente, has returned to the Spanish village after a six weeks' visit in Los Angeles studying the insurance business. Young Hanson has started selling casualty and fire insurance and will soon open an office.

An electric sign, the fourth new sign in the city, has been installed on the San Clemente Sweet shop.

Workmen have installed a giant date palm in the yard of the Ole Hanson home. The palm was hauled to San Clemente on a truck from Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Rosedale have taken up their residence in Pasadena after having spent the past three months in San Clemente. They plan to return to the village next summer.

Mrs. Francis Fell and son of Buffalo, N. Y., are visiting for several days in the home of their cousin, Mrs. William L. Faulkner.

MAN AND WIFE ARRESTED ON CHECK CHARGES

Wanted in San Bernardino county on a felony charge pertaining to the asserted issuance of several "cold" checks, Gene Willford, 23, and his wife, arrested in Anaheim on check charges yesterday by Chief of Police Bouldin, today were turned over to Sheriff W. A. Shay, of San Bernardino, who came here for the prisoners.

Willford admitted in the sheriff's office that he had written a number of fictitious checks in San Bernardino and in Colton. It was said by officers, who believe he has left "cold" checks in a number of cities in this county.

When he was taken into custody Willford was carrying a pistol, officers said, and the car he and his wife were in was registered to Alland Anderson, of 816 East C street, Colton. Mrs. Willford claimed the car is the property of her father. Officers are checking her story.

It is not likely, according to sheriff's officers here, that the pair will be held in connection with the asserted attempt to pass checks in Anaheim.

setting forth conditions pertaining to the Santa Ana Chest.

"While these gentlemen clearly recognize that personally signing these letters is not in itself a matter of paramount importance, yet it was so earnestly desired, that these communications receive the thoughtful perusal of the recipients so that they would understand and appreciate Chest conditions that they made them personal communications and took the time to sign each one personally. This typifies the painstaking and thorough efforts which have been and are being made with reference to every phase of the Chest campaign to assure 100 per cent in the campaign this year. And we are more confident of achieving this result as the consequence of the developments of the past few days," Miller concluded.

Chest headquarters will be moved the first of next week to the room at 510 North Broadway to secure sufficient room for the activities of the campaign. The use of the room, which is in a building recently purchased by R. E. Newcom and which adjoins his feed store, was donated to the Chest by Newcom. Fixtures and equipment are being secured by George Walker, Orange county Scout executive.

MURDER MYSTERY STILL UNSOLVED

Absolutely no headway has been made toward the identification of the body of a man, found near Huntington Beach 10 days ago, hidden in a chicken coop, the district attorney's office announced today.

"We are just as far from the solution of the crime as on the first day," Lew Blodget, deputy district attorney, who has charge of the investigation, said.

Reports in Los Angeles county papers of clues were branded here as false. This referred to, among others, the bloodstained automobile found near Downey, Blodget said. Several local physicians were to examine the body of the murder victim today in an effort to determine whether the crook found in the spinal cord would make the victim walk with a hunch. Some physicians were of the opinion that

Acids In Stomach Cause Indigestion

Create Sourness, Gas and Pain. How To Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sour, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try having acids all digestive aids and instead get from any drug-gist some Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful of powder or four tablets in water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.—Adv.

No More "Iron Maidens"! AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

Never again need scientific research grope in darkened cellars behind doors bolted against torture. AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE has swept before it the ignorant barrier which stupidly impeded men of genius and science marches proudly on.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's toasted"

No Throat Irritation—No Cough.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

Perfect cooking

... while you're out of the kitchen

It's amazingly easy to cook delicious meals in the Westinghouse "Flavor Zone" Oven. You merely set the clock on the oven and adjust the thermostat when you put the food in the cold oven. Then you're free until time to serve the meal. The heat comes on automatically and is shut off automatically at exactly the right time. You do not have to baste the meat or add water to the vegetables. And since cooking is entirely automatic, there's never any guesswork about results.

They are as savory and as appetizing as the rich juicy roasts, succulent vegetables and spicy puddings cooked in the famed Dutch ovens of long ago.

WOMEN VOTERS GATHER TODAY IN CITY HALL

One of the most profitable meetings of the year, from the standpoint of education and information, was the meeting of the League of Women Voters at the Santa Ana city hall this morning. Fifteen women attended the session in the council chamber at the hall and a "Governor's Council" was held, with Mrs. George Mangold, of Los Angeles, presiding.

Mrs. Mangold had the opportunity of attending Governor Young's council when it was held for the first time in Los Angeles last August.

Mrs. Carl Mock reported that the governor happened to make a change in his administration. It appears that before 1927 there were four department heads with 128 different committees reporting directly to the governor. Because of the numerous laws and numerous committees, Governor Young changed his administration so that now there are 13 different departments only that report directly to the governor.

In the meeting this morning the women of the league gave five minute reports from the different departments as presented at the governor's council. These included: Mrs. Anita Alexander, agriculture; Miss Alice Plummer, public health; Mrs. C. W. Gordon, natural resources; Mrs. J. D. Campbell, child welfare; Mrs. W. H. Koon, education; Mrs. D. D. Fieda, institutions; Mrs. J. W. Noble, penology; Mrs. W. A. Proctor, investments; Miss Octavia Goldsworthy, vocational standards; Mrs. C. Watson, public works; Mrs. W. W. Gardner, industrial relations; Mrs. Sharp, military and veteran affairs; and Mrs. A. J. Knight, finance.

Preceding the reports of the governor's council program, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Gordon and Mrs. Mock were called upon to give brief reports of their visit to the meetings of the board of supervisors. They told how they were impressed with the welcome they received.

Mrs. Mangold announced the monthly conference of the Southern leagues, which is to be held in Los Angeles the third Tuesday of each month at the Biltmore hotel. Before the general meeting this morning, the women held their regular study period in which hour they are becoming familiar with county government.

Four Fined For Driving Without Operators' Cards

As a result of a drive conducted by motorcycle officers of the city police force during the last week against persons driving automobiles without an operator's license, four men were in police court yesterday.

They were fined $5 each. They were L. De Riva, 114 Artesia street; Pablo Holgum, Santa Ana; P. Garcia, Westminster, and John L. Torres, 2304 West Fifteenth street.

According to a statement made today by Sgt. B. A. Hershey, city traffic officer, arrests will result whenever persons stopped fail to show their new operators' cards.

'PARD' MALLETT LOSES LIFE IN GUN ACCIDENT

Famous in the Southland 30 or 40 years ago as an amateur baseball pitcher, Arthur Mallett, former resident of Westminster, was dead today in his home in Brentwood near Stockton, as the result of being accidentally shot.

A message to his brother, Bert and Fred, in Westminster, conveyed the sad news and both departed at once for the northern city. Details of the accidental shooting have not been received here.

The body is scheduled to arrive here Saturday morning and plans have been completed for removing it at 2 p. m., from the Smith and Tutill chapel, to Fairhaven cemetery, where funeral services will be conducted under the auspices of the Order of Eagles.

Mr. Mallett was the husband of Mrs. Mildred Mallett and the father of Mrs. Jessie and Mrs. Newman. He also is survived by the two brothers named and William Mallett, of Los Angeles, and Charles Mallett, of Huntington Beach.

Mr. Mallett went to the northern part of the state about 10 years ago. He will be recognized better by his old-time friends as "Pard" Mallett. In the days when sand lot baseball ruled in this vicinity "Pard" Mallett was known throughout Southern California as a pitcher.

LEON WHITSELL TO PRESIDE AT GRADE HEARING

The hearing on the petition of the city of Santa Ana for the partial separation of the grade crossing on East Fourth street over the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe railroad tracks, will be before Commissioner Leon Whitsell, of the state railroad commission, in the Orange county courthouse at 10:30 a. m., Friday, November 3.

Announcement of the hearing was received today by Charles D. Swanner, city attorney, from H. G. Mathewson, secretary of the railroad commission. The city applied for an order directing the partial separation of the grade crossing, prescribing the terms upon which it shall be made and fixing the proportions in which the expense shall be divided between the railroad companies and the city.

The proposal has been actively backed by the East Fourth Street Improvement association and this body expects to have a strong delegation present at the hearing. Notices of the hearing also have been sent to the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe railroads and the Los Angeles county grade crossing committee.

Rain Will Cause Postponement Of Historical Tour

Weather indications today pointed to possibility of postponement of the scheduled visit, tomorrow by the Orange County Historical society, to historic points lying south and east of Santa Ana, for Dr. C. D. Ball, president, announced that should it rain in the morning the tour will be postponed to an indefinite date.

Pointing out that those who contemplate joining the caravan should be at the Santa Ana Ebell clubhouse not later than 8 a. m., the president said that indications today were that possibly 100 Orange county residents would be in the party. He gave emphasis to the point that a cloudy sky would not cause delay of the trip to another date.

INDIGESTION GOES QUICKLY PLEASANTLY

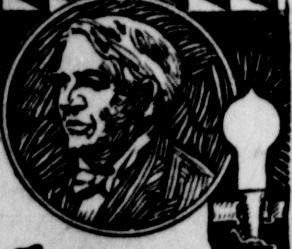

When you begin to suffer from heartburn, gas or indigestion, it's usually the fault of too much acid in your stomach. The best way—the quickest way—to stop your trouble is with Phillips Milk of Magnesia. A spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids—and does it instantly. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know Phillips Milk of Magnesia. And you will never allow yourself to suffer from over-acidity again. It is the standard anti-acid with doctors and has been for over fifty years.

CHAPTER XL

Helen ran to the telephone. Mrs. Ennis would not call her on a trivial matter, she knew. It must concern Eva.

"This is Miss Nellie—Helen," she cried when she picked up the receiver. "What is it, Mrs. Ennis?"

The voice that came back to her in answer was fraught with fear. "Is Bob there?" it asked.

"Yes, yes," Helen said. "Do you want to talk with him?"

"Please. The voice was growing fainter."

"It is your mother," Helen looked up at Bob, who had followed close upon her exit from the breakfast room, and her expression frightened him.

"What is it?" he asked hoarsely. Helen did not answer and he repeated the question over the wire.

"What's wrong, mother?"

"Oh, come home son, at once," she entreated him. "I don't know what's the matter with Eva. She is... she is..."

"I'll be there right away," Bob jumped up, not stopping even to put the receiver back on the hook.

"We'll take my car; it's faster," Helen said, hastening along beside him.

"Mine's at the door," Bob reminded her.

"So is mine. I was going to drive over and find out why Eva went home so early this morning."

True, the car was at the door. They lost not an unnecessary second in getting it started and headed toward the highway. Helen had taken the wheel because she felt Bob might think too much of her safety to drive as fast as he'd have dared alone.

Knowing every foot of the road gave Helen supreme confidence. Where the traffic lights were stationed she slowed up just enough to see if the road was clear, then she shot across, red or green.

In her mind and in Bob's was the same thought. Eva was desperate. No one could tell what she would do. Her quiet, sweet exterior covered, both knew, a temperamental fire. It was revealed in her music, in all that she did and said that was of herself and did not touch intimately upon the rest of the world.

Suddenly a few blocks away from the house, Helen brought the car to a full stop. She was white and shaking.

"I can't drive the rest of the way," she said. "It—it's too terrible."

She did not say all that was in her mind; did not tell the distraught brother how ghastly it seemed to her that they should have mended their broken love affair as a result of Eva's disillusionment.

Bob raised himself while Helen slid over into his seat. He had no time to get out and go around the car. As he slipped under the wheel Helen put her hands to her face and held them there until his home was reached.

She could not bear the thought that she had been partly to blame for whatever had happened. She wanted to shut out the vision of Brent's evilly handsome face. Why hadn't she broken with him altogether when she discovered what a monstrous sort he was? His life had been filled with women. She had known it, and yet believed that he could remain true in love.

But that day in his apartment—when she had seen for herself how he behaved when he thought himself engaged to her—that day she should have cut with him finally. It might have brought matters to a crisis earlier—he might have done something that would have caused her to speak of him to Eva, to reveal him to the girl in his true light before this. So ran her thoughts—thoughts that were hard to bear in connection with possible harm to Eva.

They hurried into the house—Bob had his key ready for the lock the instant they reached the door—and were greeted at once by a call from upstairs.

"Is that you Bob? Oh, hurry hurry!"

It was his mother, frantic and for some reason unable to come down to them.

Bob took the stairs three at a time, forgetful of Helen. She stood for a while with her fingertips pressed tightly to her lips, then, unable to bear longer the strain of uncertainty followed him.

He was at Eva's door, pleading with her to open it. His mother was on her knees, her face in her apron, sobbing brokenly.

Helen went to her, knelt beside her and drew her close.

Bob put his shoulder to the pine panels. "For God's sake, unlock the door, Eva," he implored. "I'm going to break it open."

There was no answer. Bob drew off and rammed with the full force of his strength. There was a cracking sound, a slight yielding of the flimsy lock.

Again he made the door the butt of a powerful attack, and this time the panel gave away. Through the splintered opening he thrust an arm and turned the key in the lock on the inside.

His mother, whom Helen had pulled to her feet, pushed in behind him. There had not been a sound from Eva until then. They saw her sitting drawn up in a heap on her bed, her hair disordered and her eyes staring at them in fixed terror. One arm was flung up against her forehead and in her hand was a small bottle.

She shrieked as they ran toward her, and attempted to put the bottle to her lips.

Bob leaped the few remaining steps and snatched it away from her. Her mother sank down upon the side of the bed moaning: "Eva, Eva."

Eva saw the bottle fly from Bob's hand and attempted to spring off the bed and reach for it. He grabbed her and she turned upon him like a wild animal at bay.

She seemed possessed of seven devils, fighting, shrieking, even scratching and biting.

Helen slipped forward and picked up the bottle. Eva had not noticed her until then. Helen rushed out of the room to empty the contents of the bottle in the bathroom.

As Eva saw her disappear through the doorway she became limp in Bob's arms. Her breath escaped in a long, convulsive sigh. She lay still—like a broken toy—a doll with the sawdust poured out.

Bob was shaking like a leaf as he let her down upon her pillows.

"She fainted, mom," he said pitifully.

Mrs. Ennis roused herself to meet the emergency, forcing aside the weakness of fright that had overcome her.

Helen had presence of mind enough to fetch a glass of water back with her. With this they leaved Eva's marble-white face and cold wrists.

"We must have a doctor," Bob cried frantically as she failed to respond to their treatment.

"Oh try a little harder," Helen begged. "She couldn't bear any more interference. Here, put the pillow under her feet. There, let her head down flat. Rub her hands, hard."

As she spoke she was working like mad over the unconscious girl, pushing Bob aside and taking command in consequence of being the coolest of the three.

Presently, when even she was about to despair of bringing Eva to her senses, she heard a fluttering breath pass her lips, saw her eyelids flicker and her lips move.

"Eva, Eva dear," she cried, but before Eva opened her eyes she stepped away and let Eva's glance fall upon her mother.

For a moment Eva lay in tortured silence, her eyes moving searchingly, questioningly, over her mother's worn countenance.

"Oh, mama, mama," she cried at last, reaching up her arms to be taken to her mother's bosom. When she lay enfolded there she was too exhausted, too beaten, to weep.

Her eyelids dropped as do those of a tired child. She whimpered and her mother laid a cheek to her lips.

"What is it, baby?" she said

softly, coaxingly. "My poor little chickadee, my little wee one."

Helen and Bob stole quietly out of the room.

"Forgive me, mama darling," Eva whispered, louder now. "I couldn't stand it. I loved him with all my heart."

Her mother held her tighter, pressing her cheek in a caressing movement against the silky blond hair, saying nothing, waiting for the confidence she'd prayed her girl would give her.

"I can't live without him," Eva went on, clinging closer, hurrying with her slender fingers. "I want him and, and he isn't for me. He was never for me, I know it. Bob says he is going to marry Helen—Helen, my dearest friend—oh I'll hate her—I can't help it. I can't help anything. I can't stand it. I can't! I can't! I can't!"

"Hush, hush dear," Mrs. Ennis pleaded. "You have frightened me nearly to death. Please, dear, don't make me suffer any more."

For Eva's own sake she was appealing to her sympathy, knowing, as she did, the surest way to rule the girl.

Eva's mounting emotion subsided short of a complete lack of self-control. She began to cry normally, wholly as Mrs. Ennis put it to herself.

For uncounted moments she cried and cried, with her mother making soothing noises over her, but offering no word to distract her from the relief of tears.

Helen and Bob waited downstairs. They had much to say to each other but neither could put it into words with the weight of Eva's so nearly tragic fate hanging over them.

They stood by a window, watching the scurrying leaves in the bit of restricted garden at the side of the house. Bob's arm was about Helen. She leaned against him and lost herself in the wonder of their love.

Presently Mrs. Ennis came down to them. Her eyes were red and swollen but there were signs of the calm that follows a storm in her half-smile and her general air.

They felt reassured.

"Eva wants you, Helen," the mother said and then added suddenly: "Oh you will help her, won't you?"

COMMITTEE'S REASONS FOR URGING FURTHER PROBE OF UPPER DAM SITE SET FORTH

There has been submitted to The Register a series of four papers on the question of the majority report of the committee of the Associated Chambers of Commerce which investigated the Prado dam site controversy. These four papers are based on data that was furnished by this committee, and were frankly written by one who believes in that report, and who does not believe in the lower site. He submitted them without granting the privilege of having his name published, and we are printing them because we believe that they are the best condensed statement on behalf of that report which we have seen.

We would be glad to publish anything submitted on the opposite site, and would give equal space and prominence to it.—(Editor.)

The chief reason given for abandoning the upper site, and building a dam at the lower site at an additional cost of some seven million dollars, is the theory that silt deposited on the reservoir bottom would choke the so-called rising stream. This objection is 100 percent theoretical, and Mr. Bailey has never attempted to cite either actual experience or experiments which would substantiate it. A few quotations will suffice to show what trained and experienced men think of this theory.

Arthur J. Tiele, of the department of geology of the University of Southern California, writes: "Nor can I believe that springs, etc., would fail to find their way to the surface because of 'sitting up.'" J. P. Buwalda, chairman of the division of geology at Cal-Tech, writes: "With reference to the question of the hindering of seepage into a reservoir through sitting up of the bottom, I think there can be no doubt that the view that bottom silt can hold back water seeking to enter the reservoir from below, is entirely erroneous."

Arthur E. Morgan, one of the ranking engineers of the United States, writes: "The chief engineer holds that the deposit of silt over the reservoir would tend to clog the rising stream or springs that are such an important water supply, as outlined in his official report. This danger is cited as the chief reason for choosing the lower site. In my opinion there is absolutely no danger of clogging such rising streams."

Barton M. Jones, prominent Colorado engineer, writes: "There are no indications of any exhaustive study having been made by the district of the presumed effect of the silt deposits in checking the flow from rising streams." J. B. Lippincott, a leading figure among water engineers of the southwest, writes: "We are of the opinion that there will be no water losses resulting from building dam at the Upper Site."

F. C. Finkle, another prominent water engineer of Southern California, writes: "There are many obvious facts and reasons why such a theory is untenable." He then cites the cases of Bear Valley, Hemet, Lake Arrowhead and Sweetwater reservoirs, in none of which has such silting ever choked the rising ground water.

In the face of such conclusive and authoritative testimony from men of knowledge and experience, the absolutely unsupported theory of silting up the rising streams vanishes like morning mists before the sun.

What's On the Air!

Grigsby-Grunow, of Chicago, manufacturer of Majestic radios, is expanding its field to take in the production and sale of Electric Refrigerators, it was revealed today by Ungar and Watson, Southern California and Arizona Distributors of Majestic products. The new refrigerator, which, it is claimed, will retail for not more than $100, will be introduced about the first of the year, the company announced. With announcement of the new Majestic unit, came rumors that Grigsby-Grunow would cease manufacture of the popular Majestic radio, turning the company's huge plant over entirely to the production of refrigerators. These rumors have been denied, however, by W. C. Grunow, vice president of the company, who pointed out, in support of his statement, that the company has no intention of leaving the radio field, the fact that within the last 30 days production of Majestic radios has been stepped up from 5000 to 6500 sets a day.

WARNING ISSUED TO CURB TRUST DRIVE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—In a statement recently issued by Oswald F. Schutte, executive secretary of the Radio Protective association, the radio listening and buying public was warned against the present campaign of propaganda to repeal the anti-trust provisions of the radio law. "Because the department of justice has failed to enforce the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust laws, the anti-trust sections of the radio law are the only protection which the public has against the radio trust," the statement continues. "That is why that monopoly is carrying on its present campaign of repeal. It was the prohibition against cable-wireless monopoly in the radio law that stopped the sale of the communication services of the radio trust for $1,000,000 to the International Telephone and Telegraph company. "Had that deal been consummated, it would have compelled the users of these radio channels to pay interest upon a capitalization of $1,000,000, although the trust obtained these wavelengths free from the United States government."

ANNOUNCEMENT CHANGE
In place of "there will now be a brief pause for station announcements," the NBC has substituted a four-note gong which is sounded as a warning for local stations to make their announcements.

PASSENGERS HEAR RAILROAD'S RADIO

In the parlor cars of many fast trains on the Canadian National Railways, passengers may listen to stations of the CNR or any other broadcasters in America through special receivers installed on the trains. Map shows the location of the CNR's chain in Canada.

50,000 WATTS IS SOUGHT BY MANY STATIONS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 17.—The scramble in the radio ranks now seems to be after the coveted 50,000 watts of power. But while many are seeking allotment, few are receiving it. Twelve stations already have received permission of the federal radio commission to broadcast with this power. Eight of them, KDKA, Pittsburgh; WBAP, Fort Worth; WEA, New York; WENR, Chicago; WGY, Schenectady; WLW, Cincinnati; WFAA, Dallas, and WTIC, Hartford, are already using this power regularly. Four others, WTAM, Cleveland, WBBM, and KYW, Chicago, and KNX, Los Angeles, are making necessary arrangements to do so. And others, including WABC, New York, and WFBN, Indianapolis, have petitioned the commission for permission to use this wattage.

Casting an eye over the stations employing, intending to use, or applying for information to use 50,000 watts, it can be seen that the Pacific coast will finally be represented by one super-power station. The east is represented by four stations, KDKA, WEA, WGY, and WTIC. The middle west has five in stations WTAM, WENR, WLW, WBBM, and KYW. If WFBN secures proper permission, the middle west's total will number six stations.

The south and southwest is represented by two Texas stations, WFAA and WBAP. In respect to cities, Chicago, with WENR, WBBM and KYW, leads even New York, regarded as the radio center of the United States. That also gives Illinois the lead as to the state having the most 50,000-watt stations. Ohio, Texas and New York are the homes of two each.

$50,000 IS GIVEN ANNUALLY TO KCRC

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—A broadcasting station is as highly important a public institutional factor as a college or other public educational center, in the opinion of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Chamblin, of Enid, Okla. They thus have set aside a $50,000 annual fund for the upkeep of KCRC, at Enid, from which only programs of an entertaining and educational form will be sent.

Canadian National Places Receivers on All Its Crack Trains

MONTREAL, Oct. 17.—Early in the summer of 1923 a party of Brooklyn newspapermen were making an excursion across Canada on a special train, and as a novelty, the Canadian National railways decided to broadcast them a message of welcome to Canada. The experiment was successful and the Brooklyn journalists received the first broadcast to a moving train.

Today all the Canadian National railways transcontinental trains and a great many of its other expresses are equipped with radio. It owns 12 broadcasting stations from coast to coast and the only transcontinental system of wires under one direction in Canada suitable for broadcasting.

It inaugurated this year the only system of its kind in America, telephone transmission and reception on board moving trains. By November it will have extended its chain programs regularly to Vancouver and its latest development is a plan to extend its coast-to-coast programs into the air territory of the United States, thereby adding at least 20 or more millions of people to its audience.

Started Tests in 1902
A lot of hard work was done, however, before train reception was accomplished. As far back as October 13, 1902, Sir Ernest Rutherford, a professor at McGill university, transmitted signals by wireless to a special train on the Grand Trunk railway system while it was speeding toward Montreal. The Grand Trunk system is now part of the Canadian National railways.

After the experiment with the Brooklyn newspapermen in 1923 Sir Henry Thornton, the American-born president of the Canadian National, gave his senior vice president, W. D. Robb, the job of developing the new radio department. Robb had two main plans to work on. One was to equip all the trains of the system with receiving sets and the other was to establish broadcasting stations. This was the first time in the history of railroading that radio was made part of the service offered by a railroad to the traveling public.

On New Year's eve, 1923, the first regular broadcast of the Canadian National railways was sent out from a station belonging to another company in Montreal. The next step was the erection of a broadcasting station at Ottawa. One by one, stations were added in Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, Calgary, Edmonton, Montreal, Toronto, London, Moncton, Vancouver and Quebec City.

Initials Are Call Letters
When the question of call letters came up it was found that the letters CNR had been allotted to Morocco. The Canadian government enlisted the aid of the British foreign office, which appealed to the French government and after some diplomatic correspondence Morocco relinquished the call letters CNR in favor of the Canadian National railways. These call letters are now CNR with the initial of the city in which the station is situated, added. Thus CNRM is the system's broadcasting station at Montreal.

While the work of establishing broadcasting stations went on, the trains were not being neglected. The radio engineers had trouble at first in securing the types of sets necessary for successful receiving concerts on board a moving train, but this difficulty has been overcome and to date almost all of the important trains of the system have been equipped with radio.

Each radio-equipped car is fitted with head phones for each traveler in addition to a loud speaker for use when required. To one who has never traveled on a radio-equipped train, a well-filled compartment, every passenger with

EQUALIZATION CONDEMNED BY BILL'S AUTHOR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Senator Dill, of the state of Washington, who introduced the equalization amendment to the radio law, which requires distribution of broadcasting channels largely on a population basis, told the federal radio commission he now opposes the amendment and doubts its constitutionality. He said public opinion forced the amendment into effect. But the amendment "hampers the commission tremendously," he admitted.

As voluntary counsel for KWSC, Pullman, Wash., applicant for increased power, Senator Dill said: "Personally I do not believe it is constitutional to say that a great section like the west can only have as many stations as a little area up in New England."

College Runs Station
The station, operated by the State College of Washington, applied for the channel assigned to WPG, Atlantic City, N. J., as a cleared channel. Senator Dill said he could not support the demand for a cleared channel as he was not in sympathy with the view that cleared channels are necessary for maximum public service.

SIX STUDIOS TO BE INCLUDED IN NEW NBC PLANT

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Plans for the world's most pretentious broadcasting headquarters here were made public today by Merl H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting company. The two top floors of the new Merchandise Mart building will be occupied by the Chicago studios of the company, formal opening of which is planned for January 1 next.

The new quarters will open with six studios, fully equipped with most modern radio equipment. Expansion to other studios which may have to be built in the future is anticipated by the installation of wire lines and other facilities. Aylesworth stated that the new Chicago headquarters will exceed in elaborateness the company's main studios in New York. The large studio will be 75 feet long, 51 feet wide and will have a ceiling 26 feet high. It will be the largest radio "theater" in the world, with seating accommodations for an audience of more than 500.

Other studios will range in size down to the studio for solo presentations or programs by small groups which will be 21 by 30 feet.

The most modern acoustical developments will be incorporated in the new studios. The draperies, now used for the regulation of acoustical effects, will be replaced by adjustable panels built in the walls. This feature is the development of O. B. Hanson, chief engineer of the NBC, and is the result of years of experience in radio acoustics.

Other features will include the installation of a great pipe organ as permanent equipment and a raised stage for use in productions presented in view of an audience. The 10th and 20th floors of the Merchandise Mart will be used for the NBC quarters.

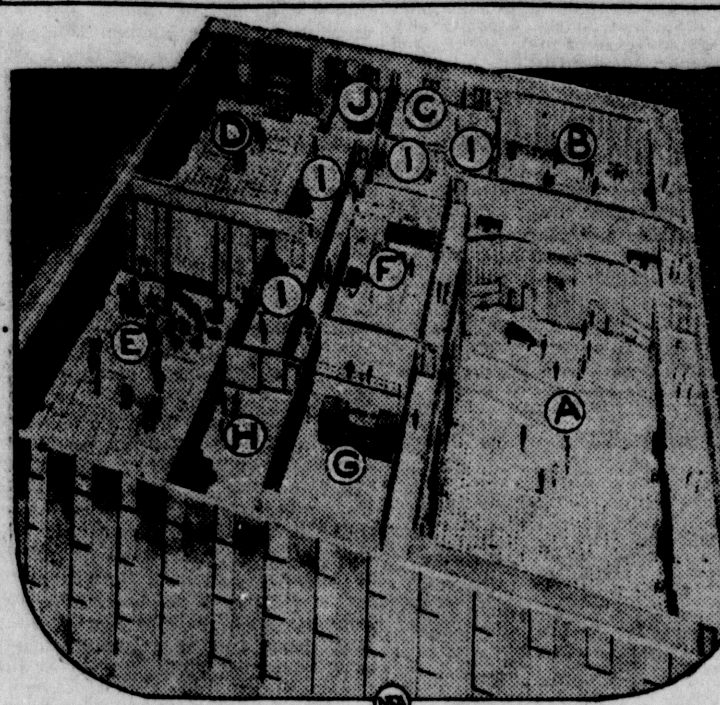

Radio Sets Are Too Complicated For Panamanians

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—A survey recently made in the Republic of Panama by the electrical equipment division of the department of commerce shows that the small number of receiving sets is due to the Panamanian considering radio as being too complicated.

There are only 300 sets here, most of which are of the home-built type. The Balboa Radio club, directly under the supervision of the U. S. navy, directs the broadcasting, the station being partly owned by the club and partly by the navy. It operates on 357.1 meters.

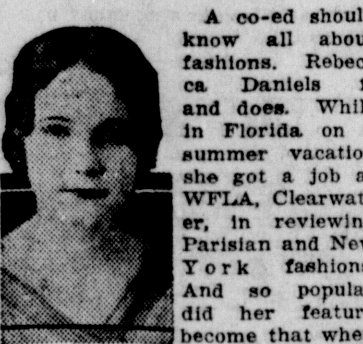

NBC TO HAVE NEW STUDIOS

This plan gives an idea of the NBC studios in Chicago on completion. The letters A, B, C, D and E are studios; F is the power room; G the control room; H the emergency room; I designates control booth, and J the recording room.

PLAN REVEALED IN INTERVIEW WITH SMIRNOFF

By EUGENE LYONS
United Press Staff Correspondent
MOSCOW, Oct. 17.—Radio is regarded by soviet leaders as one of the most powerful instruments in their hands for the education and enlightenment of the broad Russian masses.

In an interview with the United Press correspondent, the head of all broadcasting in the soviet union, Nicholas I. Smirnov, described how this instrument is being used to disperse the heavy darkness which for centuries weighed down the Russian people.

Broadcasting programs are carefully planned on a nation-wide scale, he showed, to counteract the prejudices and superstitions which have kept the vast peasantry poor and ignorant. Nothing is ever put into the air here just "for the fun of it"—even the entertainment numbers have definite educational aims.

Lack Schools, Teachers
"We lack schools and teachers," said Smirnov, "and radio is our great opportunity to meet that lack."

The interview took place, appropriately enough, in the newly-completed Telegraph building here. It is an impressively solid stone structure occupying an entire long block on the Tverskaya street; built in simple lines and curves, bare and practical, without any of the cumbersome adornments one finds in Russian buildings of an earlier day. Moscow feels that the structure is a symbol of a new hard, practical approach to life—and Smirnov's words fitted with this symbol. Several broadcasting studios equipped with the latest apparatus are located in the Telegraph building.

There are at present in the soviet union 60 broadcasting stations, the largest of them in Moscow under the guidance of the council of trade unions. Most of the stations are owned and operated directly by the commissariat of posts and telegraphs. The others are run by various organizations—trade unions, co-operatives, etc.—but are also under the direction of the commissariat, with Smirnov in charge.

Radio, however, is still in its

WEST WINDS

Here and There in Local Sport

By EDDIE WEST

Digging deep into my record books, I discover pertinent information for those who must lay it on the line to get a bang out of football.

I learn that in 14 years of competition the balance favors Long Beach high school over Santa Ana high school—six games to four, with four contests ending in ties.

Of more significance, I find that one single, solitary touchdown was enough to win or tie every blasted one of those 14 forays.

If you must know, I have an idea that one touchdown will be enough to win or tie Saturday afternoon when Saint and Jackrabbit go to the mat at Long Beach for the fifteenth time.

M'Graw Hunts For Jewish Baseball Star

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—John McGraw was engaged today in a new hunt for a Jewish baseball star to attract the 2,000,000 Jewish residents of greater New York to the Polo Grounds. With the release of Andy Cohen to Newark fulfillment of McGraw's dream of having a Jewish player was again delayed.

For some years the Giants have been searching for a Jewish star, believing a Cohen or a Solomon would attract customers who never before attended games.

McGraw is reported to have renewed efforts to secure Hughie Critz from the Cincinnati Reds to take care of second base.

NEW DATE FOR COUNTY'S DEER SEASON URGED

A definite proposal for changing the deer season on deer in the coast counties of Southern California, placing it from December 1 to January 1, was drafted today by a committee representing the Forest Protective Association of Orange county. This group, consisting of David Clough and C. B. Redman, Orange; and John Osterman, El Toro, met today with Norman M. Blaney, executive secretary of the Orange County Farm Bureau, and decided to back the change as a means of reducing the fire hazard in the deer season.

On October 26 at Garden Grove, region No. 1 of the California Farm Bureau federation will meet and the scheme will be presented there in the form of a resolution. If it is approved there by representatives of farming interests from the Southland, the resolution will be taken before the Farm Bureau federation annual convention at Fresno, November 4, 5 and 6. If it receives the backing of that convocation the matter will be taken to the fish and game commission and perhaps to the state legislature.

The counties included in the proposal are Santa Barbara, Ventura, Los Angeles, Orange and San Diego. Blaney, who is drafting the resolution, will communicate with the farm bureaus in these counties, presenting the scheme to them and endeavoring to learn their desires in the matter.

It has been pointed out that the major fire hazard in forest areas is over by December 1. The present season, from September 15 to October 15, falls within what is regarded as the most dangerous period for fires. The committee feels that the change also would result in a certain amount of game conservation in that killing of deer would not start until after the breeding season. The proposal first came up at a meeting of the Forest Protective Association in Olive on Tuesday night, when that body authorized the procedure and John Ragan, president, appointed the committee.

Cardinal Regulars To Start Saturday

STANFORD, Oct. 17.—That Coach "Pop" Warner plans to take no chances with Oregon State Saturday was seen today when he intimated he would start his first string. If the powerful Cardinal first squad functions well against the Sius, Warner will send in subs and conserve the regulars for the U. S. C. clash the following Saturday.

BEARS TRY FOOTBALL 'MIRACLE' Austin Says Blaeholder Ace Hurler

JIMMIE RATES BIG GEORGE AS BEST IN GAME

George Blaeholder, the Garden Grove pitcher who jumped from Orange county's sandlots to major league baseball in one year, is the best young pitcher in the American league.

Jimmie Austin, veteran coach of the St. Louis Browns, home from his twenty-second major league campaign, is the authority for that statement.

"Pepper Jimmie" does not qualify his praise of big George. "Blaeholder is the best youngster in the league and probably in the majors," Austin declared. "He has everything—strength, ability, courage. He was as green as he could be when he first came up to the Browns but he knows how to pitch now."

"Give him one more year and he will be ranked with Bob Grove, 'Rube' Walberg and the rest of the aces. As far as that goes he doesn't have to bow to them now. If he had been with a club this year that gave him lots of runs like the Athletics gave Grove and Walberg he would have won 70 per cent of his starts."

Blaeholder finished the season with 14 victories and 15 defeats although it was only his first as a regular starting moundman. Austin, who makes his home in the off-season at Laguna Beach, has tentatively agreed to manage the Shell Oil baseball team at Long Beach this winter and Blaeholder probably will be one of his pitchers.

Others slated to wear Shell monkey-suits are Pitcher Sweetland and First Baseman Hurt of the Phillies; Walter Christenson of the Missions; Mickey Heath and Dud Lee of Hollywood; Ray Jacobs of Los Angeles, and Frank Emmer of Minneapolis.

1930 LATHROP GRID TEAM TIES 'CEES'

The Julia C. Lathrop junior high school football team that is composed of players who will be eligible at the South Main street school next year played its first game yesterday with the Santa Ana high school "Cees." Both teams succeeded in making a touchdown but neither could add the extra point.

The high school "C" team had by far the best working offense but Coach Ferris Scott was well pleased with the way his inexperienced men performed.

Homer Cain, who is coaching the Lathrop 110-pound eleven, put his boys against the Class C second team in a practice scrimmage following the larger boys' game.

The Lathrop first team was to play Whittier State school on the Lathrop field today. Next Wednesday the "1930" Lathrop team will play the Huntington Beach "Cees" here, while the Lathrop 110-pound squad will play the Orange "Dees" early in the week.

OLYMPIC STARS HURT
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—Mayers McLain and Captain Charley Diehl will be unable to play Saturday against Santa Clara, it was announced today by Coach Percy Lowrey of the Olympic club. McLain, fullback, is suffering from a sprained ankle and Diehl, a guard, has severe facial injuries.

Weary Bears In East For Penn Tussle

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17.—Twenty-nine tired but anxious football players from the University of California were getting over the effects of their transcontinental train ride here today.

The team will carry the hopes of California in the game with the University of Pennsylvania at Franklin field here Saturday will take things easy today. After a luncheon arranged for them at the Penn Athletic club, they probably will engage in a short practice.

COACH COOK IS GLOOMY: SQUAD STARS INJURED

BY "SKY" DUNLAP

It never rains but what it pours!

That is the mournful song that Bill Cook, Santa Ana junior college coach, was singing today as he tried to mold a football team filled with holes left by injured players. Six Dons are on the shelf, some only temporarily but with injuries serious enough to keep them out of the important Compton game Saturday.

On the day after school opened, Charles Teas, a promising quarterback from Texas, was stricken with appendicitis and is just getting back in playing form, but now he is bothered with a sore leg.

The next in line was Leonard Natland, another high class quarterback from Garden Grove, who injured first one ankle and then the other. He is troubled yet with his underpinnings and has seen only a few minutes of play this year.

Another quarterback, John Dugdale, was the third casualty. Dugdale had the misfortune to injure his leg Monday after it had apparently healed.

One of the biggest blows came when Orville Schuchardt, a flashy quarterback, the fourth quarter to be hurt, broke a bone in his foot in the Phoenix game and had to quit for the remainder of the season.

George Warner, star end and signal-caller, pulled some tendons in his knee in the Pasadena game Saturday and it is doubtful if he will see much or any action against the Tartars. Sammy Griswold, bland guard and center, was injured in an automobile accident and was confined to his home in San Juan Capistrano yesterday.

Warner's loss leaves no one to call signals. Griswold left Al Kluthe to handle the center job alone, which is a tough job. Consequently, several changes will be made before Saturday to cope with these difficulties. Wayne Olcott, Jack Rime and Jack Dutton are taking a hand at signal calling in the case that Warner doesn't get in playing form. Hal Dunham and Solon Beall will take George's place at end.

Big Bill Crawford, guard, will be used to relieve Kluthe if necessary. Crawford started out the season at center. He was later shifted to fullback and lastly to guard. With neither Griswold nor Crawford playing guard, Joe Warner is the only stringer left and Ernie Stump might be shifted in to running guard. Carl Planchon or Gene Olsen are two boys capable of doing these chores.

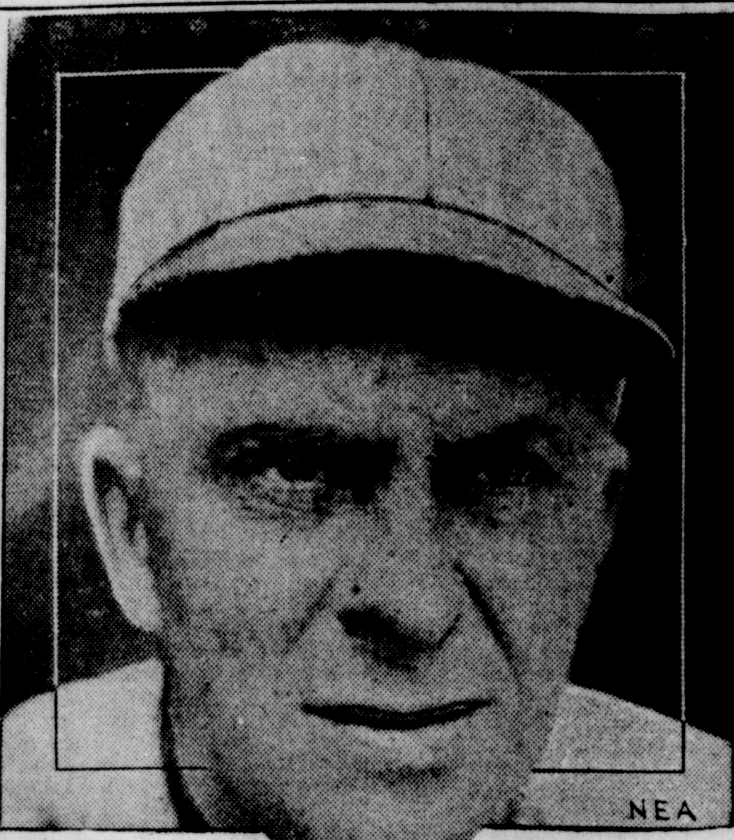

Moses Shifted To Inside Halfback

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17.—Coach Howard Jones shifted his Southern California lineup slightly today due to an injury to Marger Aspit, substitute to Harry Edelson, inside halfback. Jones announced that Don Moses, former fullback, will be shifted to the inside berth to alternate with Edelson. Moses has been handicapped this fall by an injury and the performance of Jesse Hill and Jim Musick, who have been battling for the fullback job.

CANZONERI FAVORITE
NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Tony Canzoneri, former featherweight champion, has been installed a 2 to 1 favorite over Johnny Farr of Cleveland in their 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden Friday. Farr, although a veteran, has appeared in New York only once before, losing to Benny Bass, of Philadelphia.

NEW MAJOR LEAGUE LEADERS

Announcement that Bill Killefer, above, has been signed to take Dan Howley's place as manager of the St. Louis Browns, and the signing of Bill McKechnie, former Cardinal manager, as pilot of the Boston Braves for four years, has just been made. Killefer states that Howley "persuaded me it was the right thing to do." McKechnie, below, had been offered a year's contract to manage the Cardinals but took the four-year job at Boston instead.

LONG BEACH 'B' TEAM TO PLAY SAINTS FRIDAY

Long Beach, the second league football team to meet the Santa Ana high school Class B football team this season, will travel to Poly field turf tomorrow afternoon heavy favorites to down the Saints.

Long Beach has had the Indian sign on Santa Ana's middleweights for years. Last year, especially, Santa Ana was submerged, 33 to 0. Incidentally, Long Beach won the Southern California crown also.

While the Jackrabbits were taking care of Glendale, 19 to 0, the Saints last week played host to Pasadena and after pushing over a touchdown early in the game, put up a stonewall defense and won the game, 7 to 0.

Lynn Chamberlain is a sure bet to call signals against Long Beach from the quarterback position. Supporting him in the backfield will be Chet Dugger, plunging fullback, and Fred ("Porky") Bell and Zeke Chavez, halfbacks.

In the line, there is more possibility for changes but Kiyoshi Higashi and Louis Rogers probably will start at ends, Francis Hall and Tom Cole, at tackles, Adair Rucker and Glenn Evans at guards and Don Cansey at center. Other players likely to see action are Don Cormier, fullback; Garth Olsen, guard; Hamilton, halfback; Addison Bowers, tackle; and James Hingsworth, guard.

GEORGE BAKER IS NEW PAPA

George Baker, former Stanford football star, was the proudest of proud papas today. Mrs. Baker gave birth to a baby daughter, Barbara, at St. Joseph's hospital early this morning.

HUGGINS SUCCESSOR TO BE NAMED TODAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Announcement of the choice of a successor to the late Miller Huggins as manager of the New York Yankees will be made this afternoon by Secretary Ed Barrow.

Arthur Fletcher, coach under Huggins, is believed to be the man under contract for the managerial position. Jack Hendricks, former Cincinnati manager, has conferred with Yankee officials several times.

WOMEN GAIN IN GOLF
Women provided the year's biggest golf stories, a glance at records of the major tournaments of the 1929 season reveals. Furthermore, analysis of those records indicates that women are progressing at a much faster pace than men, much the same as they have done in many other sports.

Meusel Sold To Reds For Next Season

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 17.—Sidney Well, president of the Cincinnati baseball club, announced today purchase of the release of Bob Meusel, veteran outfielder, from the New York Yankees.

All American league clubs had waived Meusel, who last season hit .260 in 100 games, the poorest season he has had in his career, which started with the Vernon club of the Pacific Coast league in 1917.

Earlier in the week Well announced the purchase of Harry Hellman, Detroit outfielder, and the signing of Dan Howley as manager.

DAVIES, CRACK L. B. PLUNGER, MAY NOT START

Employing regular Connie Mack strategy, Orlan Landreth, Long Beach high school coach, indicated today he would not start his plunging fullback, Ed Davies, against Santa Ana Saturday afternoon when the teams collide in their Coast Preparatory league game.

His plan is to hold Davies, a 155-pounder, in reserve until such time as the Jackrabbits may acquire possession of the pigskin in Saint territory and then rush him into the game and let him test the mettle of the center of the Santa Ana line, which bended under the pressure of Len Morgan's plunging in the Pasadena contest last Saturday night.

Davies, a graduate from Class B ranks, is not the most publicized of the Long Beach backs but he is the one the Santa Ana coaching staff fears most. Bill Foote, Coach "Tex" Oliver's first assistant, who scouted Long Beach in three games this season, believes Davies is the man the Saints must stop to win.

"Ramblin' Red" Franklin, the Jackrabbit captain, will be watched carefully too. Franklin is Long Beach's fastest sprinter on the track and knows his football too but the Saints betted him up last year and they think they can again.

If Davies is held in reserve his place will be taken by Bradley, a newcomer to the beach institution. Bradley was listed in the probable Long Beach starting lineup today.

Meanwhile, the Saints are rapidly rounding into condition for the Saturday combat and indications are they will be a better football team than they were last Saturday night when they submerged Pasadena under a 32 to 6 count, the largest score a Santa Ana team ever ran up on the Millionaires.

Captain Bruce Tarver's shoulder is much better and he is reasonably certain to start at running guard at Long Beach. "Toy" Blower, the sophomore end, who has been limping around with a game leg, is improved too. The Saint coaches are contemplating moving him into the backfield where Blower undoubtedly will play next year.

Oliver will give his men some more practice against Long Beach today and they also will brush up some of their own pet formations.

BOBBY LA SALLE WINS

WILMINGTON, Oct. 17.—Bobby La Salle, local welterweight, took a 10-round decision from Paul De Hate here last night. La Salle had the fight his own way most of the time and put De Hate to the floor for a nine count in the eighth.

As it is, they have a fair chance of doing so, irrespective of their handicap of travel, climate and schedule. They can lose without further reference to those considerations, as a matter of fact.

It still has Benny Lom, one of the great backs of the country; Riegels, the lad who reversed 21 men, including his own, by winning the wrong way; Barr and Eisen, varsity backs of two years standing; Harry Gill and Schwartz, two guards dating back beyond 1922; Norton, a two-year end, and a lot of good ones. If they were playing this game at the end of the season, it wouldn't appear possible that California could lose.

PROSPECTS FOR SERVICE GAME APPEAR REMOTE

Henry L. Farrell

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Prospects of renewal of football competition between the Army and Navy during the present season appeared remote today. Despite the announced confidence of Chairman Britten of the house naval affairs committee that the teams would meet December 6 at Soldier field, Chicago.

Reports from Annapolis indicated the Naval academy was pleased with the possibility of a post-season clash with Army.

West Point, however, took a different viewpoint and Major Gen. W. R. Smith declared "there is not the slightest chance of Army playing Navy in football this season."

"Our schedule," he continued, "is very heavy right now, with such opponents as Harvard, Yale, Illinois, Notre Dame and Stanford to be faced, and it would be out of the question to add another opponent. That would be asking too much of the players."

"In addition," the general said, "the date of December 6 is illogical. Examinations will be held at that time and, of course, we would not cancel or postpone them for the sake of playing a football game. The team will not start for the coast until after the examinations have been held, so the theory that we could stop at Chicago for a game December 6 while en route west does not follow the facts."

IRISH TO QUIT RAMBLING WHEN STADIUM READY

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 17.—Notre Dame is abandoning its position as leading monarch of football. The "Rambling Rockneites" who have held the nation's football mileage record for the past decade will surrender their title this season. And in another year the Irish will settle down to a comparatively home and fireside existence in comparison to those who have adopted the see-America slogan.

Notre Dame no longer is forced to wander the nation seeking competition, as was the case when Knute Rockne took charge, and with the erection of an adequate stadium at Cartier field is prepared to reduce drastically the railroad mileage piled up by its teams each fall.

This season the Irish are playing their "at home" games in Soldiers' field, Chicago, which is just a two-hour ride from the Notre Dame campus. Southern California, Northwestern, Drake and Wisconsin are Notre Dame's Chicago opponents.

A fifth game—Indiana—was played only a short distance from Notre Dame, leaving the Irish only four long trips, a jaunt to Baltimore to play the Navy, an overnight hop to Pittsburgh for Carnegie Tech, a journey to New York for a game with the Army and a trip to Atlanta for a battle with Georgia Tech.

Next year Notre Dame will entertain Navy, Carnegie, Georgia Tech, Northwestern and one or two others in its new stadium, traveling only to Southern California, New York and Pittsburgh.

Aspirants to Notre Dame's mileage record this year are numerous. California, which crosses the continent for Saturday's game with Penn, will cover almost as much ground in that trip as Notre Dame does all season.

Army will travel to Palo Alto to meet Stanford and make trips to Illinois, Boston, New Haven and New York. Carnegie Tech travels to Los Angeles, New York, St. Louis and Cleveland.

Improvement in Rebohn, Panglo, Paul, Fredericks, Hartman and Tarver makes it true.

New Coach at Long Beach
Santa Ana has the finest coach in Southern California prepdom—"Tex" Oliver—but they had him last year, too, so they can't pick up any ground at that point.

But Long Beach does. The Jackrabbits have a new tutor, Oran Landreth, and he is an improvement over Russell Sprong, a splendid fellow personally but strictly a defensive coach. His teams lacked offensive fire and finesse. They never could get going.

Landreth will be dangerous. The Jackrabbits will go somewhere when they get the ball now. They will use reverses and spin plays and a lot of other trickery that Sprong's disciples didn't understand.

A LITTLE EDITORIAL
While harping on high schools and high school football in general I am going to get out of something that has been on my chest for a long time.

I believe it is absolutely the fault of the high schools themselves that their games do not draw bigger and better crowds.

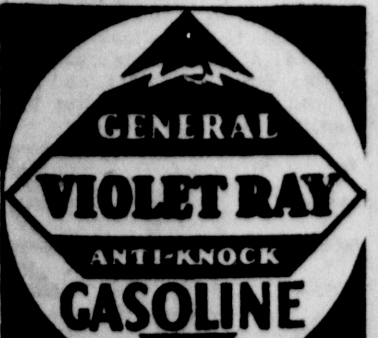

I think when a man or woman pays his 50 cents to see a game he is entitled to have, even if by purchase, a little program which gives the names and numbers of the players on both sides.

Why shouldn't the Coast Preparatory league draft some such rule? It is the strongest and best organized league in prepdom anyway and it might as well take the lead in this progressive measure.

Imagine Our Embarrassment
Last year The Register did everything it could to obtain such data. Imagine our embarrassment when, given those numbers by the coaches, we found the numbers had been deliberately changed. Why? I'll guess with you but unofficially my opinion is that it was "bush league" business by "bush league" coaches.

The public would rather stumble along without any names and numbers at all than be tricked into thinking Smith carried the ball on that long end run when White really did.

I wonder what the big city press

Let your engine Decide would say if for the U. S. C. Stanford game Coach Jones and Coach Warner changed their players' numbers at the last minute so they would be different than what the programs stated.

"Big league" coaches don't do that, of course. They cater to the public they are serving. They issue numbers at the beginning of the season and those numbers stand all season. The trickery they plan is aimed at the rival team, not at the cash customer.

There is, or rather there was, only one "big league" coach in the Coast Preparatory league last year. He was Oliver of Santa Ana. All of the others, or someone in their physical education departments, gave the press bogus numbers. When Oliver issued a set of numbers they were honest ones. If changes were necessary he had an intelligent excuse. Landreth at Long Beach and Adams at San Diego, two new coaches who know their public, probably will help conditions around the circuit this season. Let us hope so.

PLANT COVERCROPS

There isn't any question about their value. There isn't one orange ranch in a hundred, here in Orange County, that is receiving too much Humus. We all know we need more vegetable organics than we are using. Manures and Bean Straw and Alfalfa Hay cost real money—so let's use good cover-crops every year. We all know good cover-crops pay—but somehow we sometimes get careless and—well, we forget to plant.

first stage here, Smirnov declared. Under the planned economy of the five-year industrialization scheme, its future is assured. At the moment there are only about half a million receiving sets in the country. A large proportion of these are located in clubs, libraries and other public places so that possibly four or five million people actually listen in. But even that, for a population of over 150,000,000, is a small audience.

The plans call for at least 12 million receiving sets by 1932. Moreover, a system whereby any telephone receiver can be attached

Smirnov envisioned a day, not many years distant, when the new Soviet life can be brought to the entire population and especially to the distant reaches of the Soviet land, in the Far East, the Far North, Central Asia, etc.

An educational curriculum has been adopted for the next year in conjunction with the commissariat of education which will open a long list of practical opportunities to the millions in touch with radio. Students will be enrolled, examined and graduated in various courses over the radio.

The principal subject—and here we have an example of the hard practical nature of the project—will be modern methods in agriculture. About 100,000 peasants are expected to subscribe themselves for various phases of this subject.

Other faculties in this radio "Workers and Peasants University" will be:

Pedagogy, with the special purpose of preparing teachers for the village schools;
Rationalization of industry, aiming to reduce overhead expenses and to raise the productivity of labor;

General knowledge, reading, writing and arithmetic;
Anti-religious courses, with the object of "substituting scientific understanding for blind superstition."

Military training, with courses in the use of gas masks, trench warfare, etc., as well as physical culture work.

Government Radio Control Is Urged In Canada Report

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The royal commission which was appointed in Canada to investigate the needs of radio broadcasting in the dominion has recommended control of radio broadcasting, according to a report to the department of commerce from Commercial Attache Lynn of Meekins, Ottawa.

Lewis R. Miller, assistant U. S. trade commissioner at Sydney, Australia, has reported to the department of commerce that Australian radio trade is benefiting by government control of broadcasting. Added business resulted from the widespread interest aroused by the publicity given to the taking over by broadcasting under government control by the new Australian Broadcasting company.

150 Southern Californians Will Participate In Annual Contest

Some 150 young people of Southern California will participate in the state radio audition to be held in Los Angeles on two successive nights, October 19 and 20.

Definite announcement of the dates was made by Judge Benjamin F. Bledsoe, state chairman. The audition will be broadcast simultaneously over KHJ and KPRC from 8 to 10 o'clock each night, it was stated. This marks the third annual radio audition sponsored by the Atwater Kent foundation.

Approximately 35 towns in Southern California will have representatives in the contest, each town sending a boy and girl ranging in ages between 18 and 25 years. Each must furnish his or her accompanist.

The state contest will determine the boy and girl to advance to the district contest, scheduled to be held in San Francisco next month. Seven far-western states are to take part. There are five geographical districts in the United States and the ten finalists will compete for $25,000 cash awards and scholarships in New York some time in December.

Winners of the state audition will be awarded silver medals. A special ceremony is planned to be held at KHJ when these are presented the triumphant young singers. The victors in the district audition are to receive gold medals.

bel curious. And we bet her woman's curiosity gets to the bottom of the affair.

Wouldn't it be a pity if William J. Andrews, who has been at the mike for more than a year at the NBC San Francisco studios announcing the "Land of Health" program, would be reported off duty because he was sick?

Radio oddities: Colin O'More, NBC artist, can cook as well as feed as ever passed the censorship of Paris' famous chefs. Ted Husing has seven suits that he works in—one for every day in the week. Harry Reser, Eskimo leader, is a volunteer fireman in his home town of Merrick, L. I., and gives banjo lessons to the firemen.

Excited and admiring fans broke a window in a jam to see Bobby Brown, announcer for WBBM, Chicago, recently. He made an appearance at a west side store there and then the crash happened. Any one less popular than Brown might have been presented a bill for a new window.

LACEWOOD USE IS REVIVED BY MAJESTIC FIRM

Years ago, when ornate furniture was made for looks rather than use, lacewood, which grows extensively in Australia was in constant demand. With the coming of modern, Mission and futuristic furniture, however, the use of lacewood dropped to almost nil.

Now, according to Burr Shafer, Santa Ana Majestic dealer, 415 North Main street, the radio industry has revived the use of lacewood and great forests of it in Australia are being cut down and shipped to America.

One of the largest users of lacewood in the world is the Grigsby-Grunow company, builders of Majestic radios. A sheet of this delicately latticed wood, in the form that it was grown by nature, is used as a front for all Majestic loud speakers.

Besides being highly ornate and beautiful in design, it is the most ideal wood for this purpose. It lacks vibration and does not absorb sound, such as other woods do.

EQUALIZATION BILL CONDEMNED BY DILL

He did, however, urge an increase in the station's power, and an assignment on whatever channel thought desirable by the commission.

WPG and WLWL, New York city, as well as KGDM, which now share the 1190 kilocycle channel applied for by the college station, made no presentation of evidence. Senator Dill made it clear that his constituent station had no complaint against them, and would be satisfied with a mere increase in power, or any other channel assignment desirable.

Improperly Presented
In opening the hearing, the presiding commissioner, E. O. Sykes, brought out that, under general order No. 40, promulgating the nation-wide reallocation of broadcasting facilities of last November, the application of KWSC was not properly brought before the commission. The 1190-kilocycle channel sought, in the east, as one of its eight cleared channels, and hence could not be allocated to a Pacific coast station as a cleared channel.

Senator Dill expressed the view that the "whole cleared channel matter is a waste of radio facilities." He said, however, he did not propose to argue it, but made the point that stations have no vested rights to the ether, and that, if this issue is raised and sustained, it must be remedied by a constitutional amendment.

Best Canadian Talent
The ringing of a locomotive bell is the characteristic announcement of a Canadian National railway broadcast. The programs offered are of a varied nature. They include the best musical talent available. The Hart House string quartet, which have gained for themselves an international reputation, broadcast exclusively over the stations of the Canadian National railways' system.

The Toronto Symphony orchestra, said to be one of the greatest in America, is booked for a series of 25 twilight hours of symphony on Sunday afternoons from 5 to 8, starting October 20. On each occasion this orchestra will be assisted by a leading soloist. Its conductor is Dr. Luigi Von Knabits.

Music and entertainment are only a part of the program policy of the system. The programs are so designed as to disseminate information about Canada, calculated to attract the attention of capital, of settlers and of tourists. Much information, especially useful to those living in rural districts is prepared by government departments and broadcast by the CNR stations.

Specially arranged broadcasts for train reception are a feature of the program. These include brief summaries of the news, market quotations and baseball scores. From the Winnipeg station there are special broadcasts on crop reports and wheat market reports.

PRESS SEEKS PERMITS
The Press Wireless, Inc., represented by Joseph Pearson of Chicago, has made application to the federal radio commission for permission to construct 28 stations to furnish a point-to-point service for the American press.

AGAINST PORTABLES
The federal radio commission has issued a statement to the effect that portable broadcasting stations should not be allowed because they cause interference with other stations operating on fixed allocations.

This machine sold 6,364 Carloads of fruit this year

A single example of how the California Fruit Growers Exchange builds higher returns for its members.

TEN YEARS ago, anybody who asked for fresh orange juice was considered a "crank." It was too much trouble to make it.

Today fresh orange juice is the national drink. And its popularity is increasing vastly every year. Why? Largely because of a simple electrical device conceived, perfected and marketed by the California Fruit Growers Exchange. This machine, the Sunkist Junior Extractor, is now in use in 54,194 soda fountains, hotels, hospitals, and restaurants throughout America.

This season alone, these Extractors consumed 2,709,700 boxes of Oranges and Lemons... based on the very conservative estimate of 50 boxes (37 boxes of oranges and 13 boxes of lemons) a year per machine. (Metropolitan drink stands have used as high as 200 boxes a week!) The American public paid $63,352,786.00 for the 633,527,860 drinks this fruit represents, at 10 cents a drink. Without the Extractor, this money would have been spent for other beverages. Thus the Extractor has created its own, great new market for citrus fruits. And growers profit accordingly.

The sensational success of the commercial Extractor prompted the Exchange to develop "Sunkist Junior," the new electrical juice extractor for home use. This sturdy, convenient and economical machine has now been on the market scarcely 18 months. Yet it is already in use in over 44,000 homes. And tests indicate that the presence of Sunkist Junior in any home materially increases that family's consumption of Oranges!

The possibilities of the Junior Extractor are even greater than those of its successful "big brother!" Both of these Extractors are Exchange developments from start to finish, conceived to further the prosperity of Exchange growers, by expanding the market for citrus fruits. They form but one example of the aggressive, efficient and profit-yielding service that Exchange growers are getting every day in the year.

This is the kind of alert, intelligent marketing skill that brings Exchange growers the highest returns for their fruit... as comparative figures prove year after year. And this is the efficiency that enables the Exchange to give all its services to members at less than the marketing cost alone of any other citrus organization.

For further information about the Exchange, talk to your nearest District Exchange or Exchange Association manager. Or address Growers Service Bureau, California Fruit Growers Exchange, Box 530, Station "C," Los Angeles.

First Community Play Of Season Will Open Tonight

BARRIE COMEDY
WILL FEATURE
STRONG CAST

While the prevailing spirit of the opening Community play, "Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire," is that of the present, with the result that the costume committee, headed by Gladys Simpson Shafer, has had few difficulties to surmount, yet there was a certain difficulty encountered in one small matter that had to be adjusted before the opening performance, tonight, in the Fox-Spurgeon theater, where the curtain is scheduled to rise at 8:15.

The problem in question was that of a costume for a young English lad, a student in an English military school. Sir James Matthew Barrie, author of "Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire," definitely states in his stage directions that the lad, "Cosmo Grey," (played by Duncan Harnois) wears a military uniform. Yet investigations in the research department disclosed the fact that English boys wear no military uniforms until they reach such schools as Sandhurst, where, as potential officers, they are introduced to the "King's uniform."

Mrs. Shafer, as head of the committee in charge, discovered that all English precedent forbade a young lad from donning such a uniform as prevails in American military schools, but finally surmounted the difficulty with satisfaction to everyone by using a modified American military school uniform—with English buttons! So spectators at the performance tonight, as well as on succeeding nights, will see young Harnois in a natty outfit.

The only other departure from the usual garments of the moment, whether a scene be laid in England (as the current play is) or in America, was that of the nursery governess, played by Miss Edith Cornell. So far her has been secured the correct costume as worn in Great Britain, of demure gray cloak, little bonnet with floating veil and coquettish white apron.

Mona Summers Smith, as "Alice Grey," Florence Brownridge, as "Ginevra Dunbar," Ames McKinstry, as "Richardson," and Dora Sauter, as the maid, will wear the ordinary dress of the walk of life in which they are cast, as will the men of the cast, R. R. Miller, as "Colonel Grey," A. J. Garroway, as "Stephen Rollo."

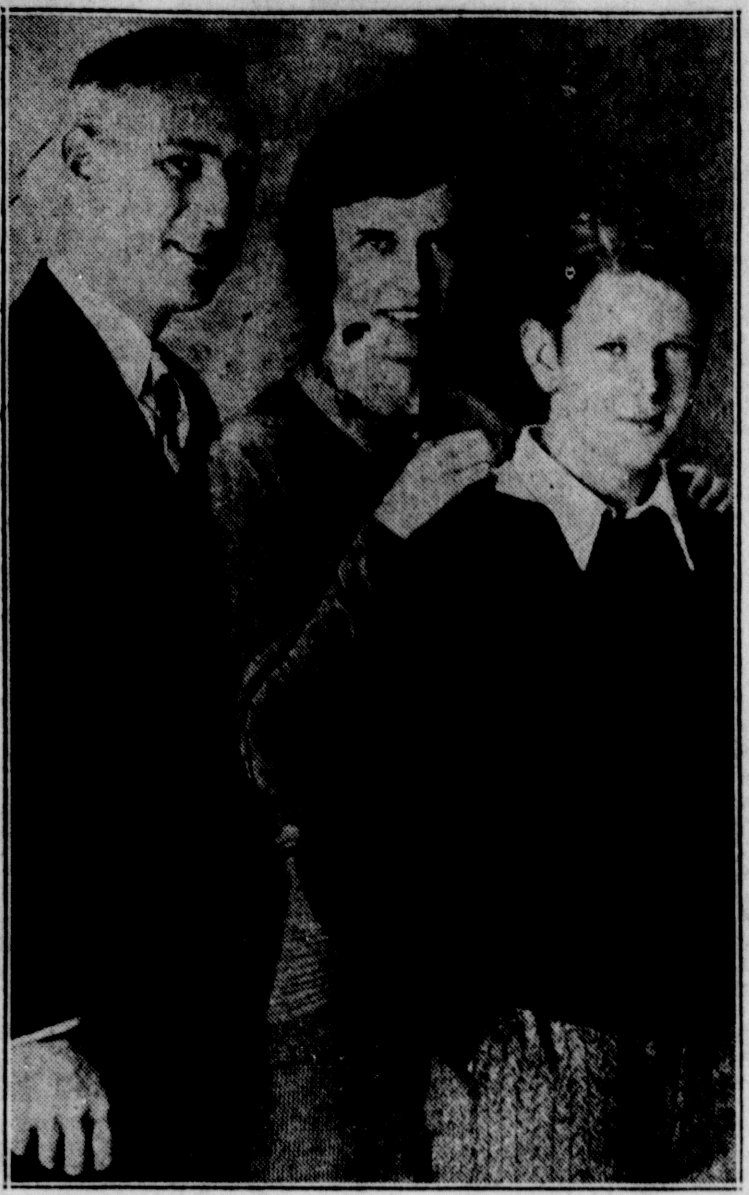

"Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire," which is being directed by Ernest Crozier Phillips, first director and one of the founders of the Community Players' association, will be presented tonight, Friday and Saturday nights. Tickets are on sale in the Santa Ana Book store, or may be procured at the box office of the theater on any of the three nights.

The season promises to be an unusually successful one, with a list of sustaining members far in excess of any previous season. Patrons include Mr. and Mrs. John P. Baumgartner, O. H. Barr, Charles Colant, W. D. Ranney, Mona Summers Smith, C. E. Utt, Santa Ana Lumber company and the Van Dien-Young company. In addition there are 118 sustaining members, whose names will appear on the programs.

INITIATION PROGRAM MARKS
BREAKFAST CLUB'S MEETING

Mrs. Alice Lair, accomplished young pianist of this city, demonstrated at the meeting of the Santa Ana Breakfast club, this morning, that she is an expert marksman when an airgun when she "rang" the bullseye in a shooting contest with O. K. Forgy, deputy sheriff.

A target for the event was placed on a wall in the dining room of St. Ann's Inn and John Knox, who directed the contest, declared that the deputy sheriff hit the target outside the circles in his two attempts. Miss Lair required but one try, the shot ringing the bell in the center of the target. Parke S. Roper, however, was suspected of having had something to do with the ringing of the bell.

This was just one of the stunts Sheriff Sam Jernigan, Roper and Knox "pulled" in a program of initiation of seven new members.

A contest in the playing of musical toys was won by H. C. Wilson, who defeated R. M. Berge, Dr. Loman Adams and Bert Cline. He was awarded a 10-cent watch.

J. G. Tucker was required to pass expert judgment on samples of bread.

The initiation was completed by questioning of Dr. E. D. Kilgore as to his knowledge of the Hawaiian language and the practices of physicians in Honolulu. Bob Fernandez was the interrogator.

The new members were welcomed to membership in the club in an address by B. Z.

MEIKLEJOHNS
TELL THRILLS
OF WORLD TOUR

The strangeness and beauties of far countries were revealed today when M. C. Meiklejohn narrated something of his experiences while spending over a year with his wife abroad. They recently returned to their home in Pasadena, after traveling through 26 different countries and sailing on 14 different ships.

Meiklejohn is spending several weeks in the Robert L. Brown home, at 408 East Chestnut avenue, to assist with the care of his grandchildren while his daughter, Mrs. Brown, is recuperating in St. Joseph's hospital from a serious illness. He was the oldest merchant tailor in Los Angeles at the time of his retirement several years ago. He was in business in Los Angeles for 40 years.

Although Meiklejohn is a native Scotchman, he came to California in 1886 and since 1887 has been a resident of Los Angeles. He made the world tour with his wife and made observations through the patriotic eyes of a fervent American citizen.

Mr. and Mrs. Meiklejohn sailed on the following ships during the course of the voyage: President Lincoln, Choko Maru, Patroclus, President Harrison, Op Ten Noort, Melchior Trent, President Wilson, Elephanter, Aronda, Attoona, President Hayes, Italia, Regina and Melita.

Visited Many Countries
They visited in Honolulu, Japan, China, Philippine Islands, Singapore and Malaya states, Java, Bali Island, Burmah, India, Ceylon, Egypt, Judea, Palestine, Syria, Turkey, Greece, Switzerland, France, England, Ireland, Scotland and Canada.

Enthusiastically describing the beauty of Honolulu, Meiklejohn told of a visit to Moana valley, which he said was set in on three sides by mountains green to the top and most inspiring. They visited the tearooms operated by young women of the Salvation Army. Near the tearooms was the grass house occupied by Robert Louis Stevenson at the time he wrote his famous children's poems.

In Japan Mr. and Mrs. Meiklejohn visited the world famous Daijutsu, or Great Buddha. It is assured Santa Ana of an organized rooting section at all football games and a representative showing at all athletic contests. Robert Chapman, associated student president, was one of the students fostering the organization.

At the assembly several students spoke of the need of such a club and urged all the college men to get behind it. The first task of the club will be to get every student possible out to the Compton football game Saturday.

WHEN FIRES CAUSED $2,000,000 LOSS

This remarkable airplane view shows flames at their height during the raging forest fire on the mountain slopes near Santa Paula, Calif., which caused approximately $2,000,000 damages and left 300 people homeless. It was one of the worst forest fires in California history. The smoke was visible for many miles. This picture was rushed to Los Angeles and transmitted by telephoto to newspapers.

HONOR EDISON AT MEETING OF
KIWANIS CLUB

Kiwanians yesterday devoted the full period of their program to a celebration of the Golden Jubilee of Light, honoring Thomas A. Edison, the dean of American inventors, whose experiments with an incandescent light attained success 50 years ago.

The program was under the direction of Orlyn Robertson, who introduced two speakers to members of the club and their guests, Julius Caesar, of the Edison Lamp works, Los Angeles, gave a short talk demonstrating several of the types of lamps that have been developed by the industry for various uses. The largest lamps were of 3000 and 10,000 watts, the latter selling for $150 each. Both are used for lighting aviation fields and the larger size also is used in motion picture work. A replica of Edison's first lamp also was displayed.

Broadcast Announced
The principal speaker of the day was Clyde Houston, of Pomona, district manager for the Southern California Edison company. Houston prefaced his address with an announcement of the radio broadcast that is to take place in Dearborn, Mich., next Monday night, honoring Edison and his invention. The speaker outlined for his audience the history of the progress of light, starting with the pine knot torches of the cave men of 4000 B. C., tracing the improvements on down the line from the crude oil lights and moss wicks that were extensively used until 1783, when a Frenchman invented a better type of wick and the lamp chimney, through the artificial gas lights until the final successful experiment of Edison with an electric light in 1879.

Houston also paid tribute to Edison for his many other inventions resulting in great benefits to mankind, including the carbon transmitter for telephones, improvements in the telegraph and creation of the phonograph. A short sketch of Edison's life, given by the speaker, brought out his early love for chemistry, his education by his mother, his experiences as a railroad newsboy and the many experiments conducted in his laboratories in search of the electric light. The first lamp burned 40 hours and was much like the ones in use today so far as construction is concerned. The investment in properties created by the inventions of Edison now amounts to the staggering total of $21,000,000, according to Houston.

Demonstration of an Edison combination phonograph and radio was made by C. Wells Gowdy, of the Turner Radio company.

Edison, the Miracle Man," which was sung by James Sewell, accompanied by Miss Allen Taylor. Several selections on the Edison phonograph also were featured.

When
are upset

Baby ills and ailments seem twice as serious at night. A sudden cry may mean colic. Or a sudden attack of diarrhea—a condition it is always important to check quickly. How would you meet this emergency—tonight? Have you a bottle of Castoria ready? There is nothing that can take the place of this harmless but effective remedy for children; nothing that acts quite the same, or has quite the same comforting effect on them.

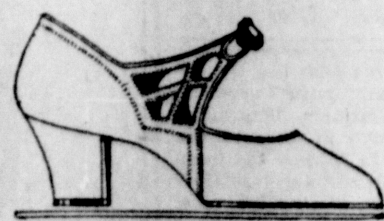

For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old, reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an everyday aid. Its gentle influence will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. Its mild regulation will help an older child whose tongue is coated because of sluggish bowels. All druggists have Castoria; the genuine bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.

Santa Ana Couple Is Wedded in Church Of Flowers

Lovely in its simplicity was the wedding of Miss Della Iman, charming daughter of Mrs. Inez Iman of 1015 West Camille street, this city, and Harry Wright Wilson of Orange, son of Mrs. Eloise Wilson of Long Beach, which occurred yesterday morning at 8:30 o'clock in the Little Church of the Flowers at Glendale.

The bride chose a golden brown transparent velvet frock for the wedding and she wore a corsage of butterfly roses. Hat and slippers and other accessories were in harmonizing tones. She was unattended.

The Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Glendale, read the impressive service.

After a short honeymoon, Mr. Wilson and his bride will return to this city where they will make their home.

Mrs. Wilson is well known in this city where she has lived for a number of years. She attended the local schools where she took a prominent part in many school activities and for some time she has been bookkeeper at Hugh J. Lowe's clothing store.

Her husband attended schools in Long Beach and came to this county recently to take charge of the United Parcel Service.

Beautiful Flowers Are Feature of Luncheon At Country Club

Friends of Mrs. Charles Walker and Mrs. George Rowley Wells certainly heeded the precept to "Say it with flowers" yesterday. In showing their interest in the Halloween luncheon and bridge which the two hostesses presented at the Santa Ana Country club, with the result that the autumnal color motif of the function, was considerably emphasized by the unusually lovely dahlias, zinnias and mixed blossoms sent for the occasion.

Among those paying this graceful compliment, so typical of California, were Mrs. Norman Blaney, Mrs. Z. Bertrand West, Mrs. Orly Robertson, Mrs. W. B. Martin, Mrs. William Menton, Mrs. Lee Boyle and Mrs. Fred Forzy. Their bouquets formed a glowing background for the bridge tables with their black and gold covers, and the beautifully gowned guests.

Two large round tables were arranged for luncheon in one end of the big assembly room of the clubhouse, with a hostess presiding at each. Low bowls of rust-hued zinnias centering the tables, were surrounded by clever little Halloween fences upon which black cats disported themselves.

Quickly shaped black and orange nut baskets were used, and pretty carnival maidens held golden pumpkin name and tally cards at each place. The menu stressed the holiday motif, ending with orange ice served with chocolate frosted individual cakes in the forms of the four card suits.

After luncheon, and with the tables concealed by the huge golden and black screens, the guests sought the small tables arranged near the wide fireplace for the bridge contest. In this, Mrs. A. N. Zerman, Mrs. Orly Robertson and Mrs. M. McKain held the three high scores. With vivid orange ribbons enhancing the somber black papers of their wrappings, the gifts completed the chosen color scheme of the hostesses, and were a charming candy jar in painted glass, a fascinating little black and gold teapot, and a slender bud vase in the same striking effect.

Guests assembling in response to the invitation of Mrs. Wells and Mrs. Walker, were Mesdames A. Yarnell, C. M. McCain, O. K. Forzy, J. E. Prentice, E. T. Mather, W. B. Martin, Theo. Winkler, Robert Mize, Harry Westover, Fred Newcomb, Lottie Schwartz, Paul Schwartz, Allen Wallace, Don Rice, Augustus Allen, Jess Goodman, W. L. Dugan, Orly Robertson, L. R. Crawford, A. N. Zerman, Emmett Elliott, Elmer Burns, Walter Vandermaast, Z. B. West Jr., Nat. Neff, Lee Boyle, Fred Crowell and William G. Knox.

Two of Miss Gould's pupils will present special numbers on the evening's program. They are Dorothy Huddleston and Lucile Beckwith. Miss Huddleston will give "Sarabande," by Bach, and Miss Huddleston and Miss Beckwith will give "Minuet," by Paderevski.

Madame Leontine Redon, dramatic soprano, will sing "Adeieu Forets," from Tschalkowsky's "Jeanne O'Arc," "Song of the Open," by La Forge, and "Cry of Rachel," by Salter.

The recital is to be open to the public.

Junior College Students Will Dance at S. A. Country Club

With the Santa Ana Country club as a fitting background for the futuristic motif of the Santa Ana junior college Apache dance to be held this Saturday evening, preparations for the affair are rapidly coming to a close.

Following the Santa Ana-Compton football game, students of the local college will attend the Sophomore-Freshman dance, which promises, according to the committee, to be the largest dance of the year.

Committee which have been appointed for the dance include programs, table appointments and favors, Miss Clara Kate Owens, chairman, and Miss Marcia Huber, Miss Frances Lane, Miss LaVenia Compton, Miss Florence Brownridge, Miss Ada Marie Hendrickson, Miss Dorothy Harmon, Miss Hazel Guilbert, Miss Katherine Walbridge, Miss Frances Vieira, Miss Mildred Staples, Miss Betty Wiswall, Miss Maybelle Ball, designer of the wood block for the program cards, and Miss Ruth Juhlen, who out the program block; for decorations, Abbott Mason, chairman, Johnny Keeler, Miss Dorothy Harmon; reception, Bill Crawford, and refreshments, Miss Virginia Thomas, whose committee has not been appointed.

Freshmen students are to be guests of the sophomores at the dance, and tickets for upperclassmen may be purchased from the various committee chairmen, according to Mr. Geeting.

YOU and your Friends

Mrs. T. F. McGilvery of the Santa Ana Country club has returned from an extended trip through the east. She spent some time with friends in New York.

International Artists Committee Presents Ebell Luncheon

According to Ebell president, Mrs. Robert G. Tuthill, section leaders and the curator, Mrs. William H. De Wolfe, a comprehensive idea of the pleasures awaiting the general society and the public as a whole in the third International Artists concert course which Ebell will foster this year, members of the committee responsible for the course, yesterday presided at a most enjoyable luncheon in the clubhouse.

Miss Lula Minter, chairman of the committee, Mrs. F. E. Coulter, Mrs. S. W. Nau Mrs. Cood Adams, Mrs. E. B. Sprague and Mrs. J. H. Metzgar comprised the hostess group, offering the unique hospitality. The luncheon at which they presided as the initial feature of an occasion of rare enjoyment, was served at tables arranged in triangular form surrounding a tall wrought-iron standard holding a great jar of blossoms in a wide variety of colors and forms. These lovely colors were repeated in flowers arranged in small bowls and placed at intervals on each of the tables forming the triangle.

The hostesses were seated at the base of this triangle, which proved a most effective place for the after-luncheon program of informal talks. Mrs. Tuthill as president of the society, gave a few words of greeting to the assembled clubwomen, after which Miss Minter spoke briefly on the course as a whole, enlisting the interest and co-operation of each section leader in making it the same success as that preceding courses have been.

To crown the interest, Mrs. Coulter talked informally on each of the three attractions chosen, giving her hearers intimate glimpses of the artists and of their capabilities and fame. Her first attention was given the English Shakers, that organization of three men and three women which won such unstinted praise on its two American tours, and which is booked for December 6.

The group was organized by M. R. Kelley, the basso, five years ago in response to a request for a concert group for St. Martin's cathedral, London. In his research investigations in the London museum, the founder discovered rare old manuscripts that led him to form the small chorus with a view to reviving the exquisite songs of the Elizabethan period. "This is the period," explained Mrs. Coulter, was said to have been as rich in its musical heritage, as its queen was in gowns—and she was noted for owing 3600 different costumes."

The speaker also told of the origin of the informal grouping of the English Shakers, and presented their program. This came from the first printed song, which, blazoned on a circular parchment, was held by the singers gathered around a table, and rotated as they needed to sing the parts, which did not parallel the circular border. The English Shakers retain this method as they do the a cappella form (without instrumental accompaniment).

Will Rogers, that genial philosopher, will be the second attraction, to appear early in the new year, and Mrs. Coulter talked interestingly of his leap into international popularity, relating many delightful anecdotes illustrating his peculiar brand of humor. Among these was the wagger he placed that he would make President Coolidge smile within one minute after his introduction to that dignitary. The bet was freely taken since the president was ever noted for his unsmiling taciturnity. "But needless to say," Mrs. Coulter related, "Rogers won the bet and in less than the specified minute, for when acknowledging the introduction he said 'And what was the name please?'"

The Pro Arte String quartet, an organization of Belgian artists, will conclude the series in March, and Mrs. Coulter, who heard the Royal Belgian band of which the quartet is a branch, at its concert last year in Los Angeles, stated that it was the finest thing she ever heard. "The strange coincidence in the quartet, is that the four men were born and reared in the same little Belgian city, attended the same school and had their first musical training under the same master, so they have played together all their lives with the exception of the World war period when all saw active service," Mrs. Coulter related.

It was gratifying beyond measure to the committee in charge of the concert course, to be assured of such whole-hearted cooperation on the part of the Ebell leaders, and all declared that they were ready to approach the ticket-selling campaign with renewed energy and enthusiasm. The tickets will go on sale at once to the general public in order to have that necessary work accomplished well in advance of the opening date of December 6.

National Chairman To Be Present for Convention

An unusually interesting program has been arranged for the semi-annual convention of the Orange County federation of Women's clubs which is to take place Friday, October 25, at the Anaheim Elks' club.

A special feature of the program will be an address by Mrs. Ben Hooper of Oshkosh, Wis., national chairman of International relations. She will be presented by Mrs. E. E. Smith of Anaheim, district and county chairman of International relations.

Chairmen will each be allowed three minutes in which to present to the convention plans for their year's work as outlined by the district and state chairmen, according to Mrs. Joseph Thurston of Laguna Beach, county president.

Action will be taken upon amending Article 2 of the by-laws as submitted by a committee comprised of Mrs. J. V. Kelsey, Mrs. E. E. Smith, Mrs. A. W. Miller and Mrs. A. L. Anderson, as follows:

Under Section 1, strike out "five cents per capita" insert "eight cents per capita, of which not more than three cents shall be available for the president's federation expenses." Section 2, add "and shall be based upon the membership of the previous year." That Section three be omitted. That Section four be omitted.

Luncheon reservations should be made with the hostess chairman, Mrs. Charles E. Harbeson, R.F.D. No. 2, Anaheim, Calif., as early as possible.

It has been announced that names of delegates and alternates must be in the hands of the chairman of the Credentials committee, Mrs. George Story, 127 West Malvern street, Fullerton, by tomorrow evening.

Delegates who will attend from Santa Ana include Mesdames J. O. Prescott, S. M. Davis, W. L. Deimling, H. C. Wylie, C. C. Violet, J. M. Cloyes, M. C. Maloney, S. H. Finley, John Clarkson, Glenn Warner, C. J. Jackson, F. L. Andrews, S. M. Stanley, B. V. Kellogg, O. S. Catland, Clyde Bach and A. G. Flagg and the Misses Pauline Parsons and Lula Minter of Ebell society and Mrs. S. R. Byler, Mrs. Charles Oakes and Mrs. James Clark of the Woman's club.

Alternates will be Mesdames E. M. Nealley, C. F. Boyer, C. M. Rowland, T. S. Mead, D. L. McClelland, J. W. McCormac, L. C. Fairbanks, C. R. Reyburn, Harry Spencer, W. L. Leiby, C. E. Eaton and Dr. Evalene Peo of the Women's club.

Suprise Party Marks Birth Anniversary

William Homan's eighty-fifth birthday anniversary was the occasion for a merry surprise party planned for him by his wife who is in the Santa Ana Valley hospital recovering from a broken hip, and Mrs. S. E. Cook and Mrs. H. C. Hall.

Those taking part in the affair were Mr. and Mrs. John Keller, Mrs. George Smith, Mrs. Thomas Trythall, Mrs. Nora Bruns, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Pinkerton, Mr. and Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Cook.

Beta Gamma Society Meets for Dinner At Ketner's

Leonard Morris, popular alumnus of Santa Ana junior college, was the speaker at last night's dinner meeting of the Beta Gamma college honorary society, held in Ketner's banquet room. Attractive table appointments were used at the dinner.

Illustrating his discussion with a collection of snapshots which he took during his trips with Dean McKee Fisk and Thomas Hall Glenn, members of the college faculty, through China and Japan this summer, the speaker told of the large percentage of Orientals who speak almost entirely in English. He also told several humorous occurrences which happened while the Santa Anans were attempting to secure pictures of interiors of the Japanese temples and of the idols.

Members attending last night's meeting were Leonard Morris, Delmer Brown, Wylie Carlyle, Fred Humiston, Miss Lavinia Compton, Miss Dorothy Harmon and Mrs. John Tessimann, faculty advisor.

Anaheim Man and Fiancee Entertained in North

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Rowcastle entertained at dinner, followed by cards, at their home in Thousand Oaks, Berkeley, on Saturday evening, in honor of Miss Greta McGregor of Oakland and her fiancé, Henry Mang of Anaheim.

Mr. Mang is a well known orchardist of the Southland and among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Seely of San Diego. Decorations were in yellow and orange.

A feature of the occasion was a shower of table silver for the guests of honor, gifts being sent them also from Mrs. Fanny M. Lacy of Santa Ana, and Mrs. Amelia Prather of Tustin.

First Aid for Rough Hands
Very few women can "sit on a cushion and sew a fine seam" these days.

Pickles, jams and jellies claim their attention until cold weather sets in, and there is always work to be done in the garden, bulbs to be dug up, sorted and tagged, and the thousand-and-one little grubby things housewives love to do at this time of the year.

But aren't they death on smooth hands? So much soap and water that the poor skin can't secrete oil fast enough to keep the hands from chapping into red, ugly monstrosities! Yet—an hour every few days will help offset the damage.

First, buy an extra large pair of heavy rubber gloves and into them put a generous amount of cornmeal mixed with buttermilk. Wash the hands in good soap and warm water and rinse very thoroughly, dry and pat lemon juice into them.

Slip the hands into the gloves filled with cornmeal mixture, and lie down for an hour's rest. Keep the hands low so that the contents of the gloves will stay put. When the hour is over rinse the meal, dry the hands and rub well with warmed almond oil.

Do this once a week and you won't have to apologize for your hands to anyone.

Is Happiness A Myth?

Sometimes I Think They Are BUT Sometimes I Think They Aren't
By VELVA G. DARLING

The "Yes" side to this question, strange to say, I did not cull (I took a course in "culling" last fall) from the familiar fields of philosophy or religion or other usual departments of such psychological discussions. I found it in the prosaic, mathematical, cold-blooded field of Economics—Believe It Or Not! The first law in business and economics is this: "Human wants are capable of INDEFINITE EXPANSION." Twenty years ago the world thought that the family which had the most beautiful kerosene lamp and the most gaily painted outhouses must certainly have ALL that MATERIAL happiness could expect. But human wants expand—and with it the definition of happiness. The family outfitted TODAY as the happiest family twenty years ago was outfitted, would consider itself in utter misery! 1929 babies use technical terms applying to airplanes and automobiles with an ease which not even Thomas Edison possessed a couple of dozen years ago. And the happiness of these babies as they grow into adults will continue to be as unsettled, as uncertain and far-off a thing as any Greek myth.

But on the other hand, happiness to the majority of people is a word to which you give YOUR OWN interpretation, wide or narrow, pleasant or unpleasant. Sometimes I think happiness can never come to even the most modern man or woman FROM the OUTSIDE. It must be born within YOURSELF. A modern young thinker has put it well: "You can produce a false rose out of paper," he says. "It will LOOK like a rose, too, to a casual observer. But after all, it is an ARTIFICIAL flower with no fragrance. You cannot create the real rose. It must be born out of the travail of the earth. After many seasons of wind, rain, sun and hard struggle, a rose is born." Real happiness is IN the individual. Not in an airplane or a tele-vision instrument. To a man who has been walking the streets for days, unable to get work, starving himself on two doughnuts and a cup of coffee a day—five dollars means as much as five thousand dollars to YOU after your usual hearty dinner. A plate of hot roast beef and mashed potatoes and beans would bring him more BLISS than ten banquets in a row would to you!

Sometimes I think happiness and the pursuit of it is not only the right of every human being but his actual DUTY to himself and those around him. The "blues" are nice to sing about but awful to live with! You can't hold two thoughts of opposite meaning in your mind at the same time. Either you are THRILLED and JOYOUS at the prospect of the day ahead of you, or you LOATHE the very idea of it. And YOU are the person who plants one or the other of those ideas in your own mind—making happiness NOT a myth, but the DIRECT RESULT of your OWN choice. And yet, maybe it's true that since all growth is based on reaching for something higher, we are BORN incapable of achieving happiness in order that we may keep on growing, searching for it—like a dog with a weenie tied to a stick on its back and just out of reach of its jaws. Right now, we are perfectly happy without tele-vision. But at any moment the market will be flooded with instruments that will make tele-vision as ordinary and essential as the telephone. Big business is BUILT upon the law that "Human wants are capable of indefinite expansion." So—why be happy? Yet, it's GRAND just to be alive, HONEST! Wire or write for arguments on either side of this question, stating preference. (Copyright, 1929, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

The WOMAN'S DAY

When Ishbel MacDonald became hostess for her father at Number 10 Downing street, in London, there were those who thought that this very natural, unaffected person, with her disregard for clothing and formality, might find her new position difficult.

Some of the dowagers of the British diplomatic set, decided to help her out about clothes, and tell her what to do and how to go about being the second lady of the land. She listened attentively, I'm told, then said:

"I believe I can get along very well, thank you."

And she has. But when you read that very remarkable tribute which J. Ramsay MacDonald wrote about his wife, a volume called "Margaret MacDonald," you realize that Ishbel's mother had prepared her very well for her present position, and that she is but repeating her mother's success.

"For society as such, she (meaning Ishbel's mother) had great distaste. It bored her. Nobody enjoyed more thoroughly than she did a frolicsome time. She could play with the rowdiest and joke with the most facetious. But she chose her companions for such occasions."

"I do not require to change my friends when I change my interests," she said. "We can all change together. If I can work one day, and make merry the next, so can my friends. It is a great mistake to arrange your life so that one set of friends should always see you on committees and another always see you wasting your time."

He explained how the "salon" started, which gives another illuminating picture of her character. "Once every three weeks or so for some ten years our rooms were crowded with men and women busy in the service of labor and Socialism. The shy recruit just arrived in London came to see those of whom he had heard so much; the stranger from the ends of the earth, black, yellow, or white in color, came as a guest; meetings were fixed up and plots may have been hatched and so on."

"Amidst her guests she moved, chatting, cheering, introducing; for her wonderful memory for names and faces and her vigilant sympathy made her a perfect hostess for a great crowd."

COLMAN PICTURE PROVIDES THRILLS

When peace comes to England after the World War, Capt. Harry Drummond, known as "Bulldog," becomes restless. He seeks excitement and finally adventures for it in a London newspaper. His answers come by the hundreds and he selects one from a girl.

This is the start of the story, "Bulldog Drummond," an all-talking United Artists picture, showing in the Fox-West Coast theater, starring Ronald Colman.

The adventures he has, uncanny, daring and thrilling, go to make up the remainder of the picture.

Joan Bennett has the feminine lead in the play, while Montague Love and Lilyan Tashman have important roles.

"Bulldog Drummond" plays here for the last times tomorrow, completing a five-day run.

An Assop's Fable in sound: "Ukelele Ike," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer skit, and a Fox Movietone newsreel complete the bill.

BIAS FLOUNCES

A black flat crepe for autumn, with pink georgette touches at neck and cuffs, has a new effect by introducing bias flounces around the hips godets flaring below.

She read, studied, debated and campaigned in a generation when that was less a part of a woman's life than today.

Margaret Ethel MacDonald gave her daughter a rich and varied background, and a better preparation for her difficult position to day than any purely social training could possibly have supplied. It is no wonder that she fits into her difficult position with ease and that she is her father's "right hand man." She knows her job.

"TWO BLACK CROWS" CLOSE RUN TONIGHT

Today marks the last opportunity of seeing the "Two Black Crows," Charles Mack and George Moran, in "Why Bring That Up," which has been playing in the Fox-Broadway theater since last Monday.

All the funny sayings which made the Two Black Crows famous, with many new ones added, a musical comedy show, a good plot and unusually good direction go to make the first Moran and Mack all-talking film venture one of the most popular of the year.

The story concerns two comedians who fight their way to the top of their profession through love for each other, only to see their hopes fade when one of the team "falls" for a designing woman. The other comes to the rescue and in a startling climax saves his friend.

Evelyn Brent and Harry Green also have important roles in the film. The song hits and dance numbers are particularly good.

A boxing bout, staged by the Two Black Crows provides the funniest parts of the picture.

Aside from the feature, a Grantland Rice Sportlight; a playlet, "The Bishop's Candlesticks," and a Fox Movietone newsreel are on the bill.

Dance Arranged By San Clemente Club For Oct. 26

SAN CLEMENTE, Oct. 17.—Bud Penwick, Charles Baker, Bill Hanson and Trafford Hutson have been named by President Thomas Murphree Jr. of the Men's club to take charge of the Halloween dance at the Social club October 26. The ball will be a masquerade.

Win Keel, Barney Arnold and Bud Penwick, baseball committee, are arranging with Newport for a ball game to be played on the San Clement diamond some time in the near future. October 26 was a date suggested but this appears to be too soon, not allowing San Clemente proper time in which to line up a club for the battle.

An indoor team of the Men's club will clash with a San Juan Capistrano team as one of the opening features of the new gymnasium of the San Juan Capistrano union high school. The game will be played October 23.

WATER POLICY OUTLINED FOR ORANGE GROUP

ORANGE, Oct. 17.—Willard Smith, chairman of the board of supervisors, was the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the Lions club yesterday at the American Legion clubhouse. He gave club members a general outline of the old water conservation and flood control program as made by the supervisors.

"The water situation is serious," Smith declared. "Something will have to be done."

In speaking of the lower dam site Smith said that the ranch owned by Mrs. Susana Bixby Bryant would be flooded if the dam was located there. The county is willing to buy the grove. Smith said, declaring that Mrs. Bryant prized the trees greatly as the grove was one of the finest in Southern California. Smith spoke of Mrs. Bryant's wealth and of how she had used a great deal of time and money in developing the grove.

Earl Phillips gave a craft talk on felt hats. The first felt hat as they are known now was made by a native of Switzerland who lived in Paris, Phillips said. All felts are made from rabbit skins from which the fur is clipped and which is then spun in a cone until it is about three feet high. The hat is then shrunk to the proper size. Phillips said, experts adjusting the brim to a greater weight than the crown.

John Christensen was the chairman of the day.

LIDO SPONSOR BACKS HARBOR BOND ELECTION

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 17.—This city's largest taxpayer, the Lido Isle company, which plans a unique $1,000,000 development of that island in the bay, strongly supports the $900,000 city harbor bond issue to be up at next Tuesday's election, and wishes to see it carried, in spite of the fact that it will pay more taxes than any other property owner.

W. C. Crittenden, chief owner of the company, in a letter to the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce, received today, calls the bay "the greatest asset that Orange county has," and says that although Lido Isle is in a part of the bay farthest from the harbor entrance, where the bond money is to be spent, still they will gladly pay any taxes "to meet any development in the bay."

The letter is regarded as significant, as Crittenden also takes occasion to praise the harbor high school project, and both harbor and high school workers believed that the Lido Isle owners look upon both the harbor bond issue and the school project as vital to the city and to other large projects. The beach grammar school, attended by two of Crittenden's children, also is lauded in the letter.

THE TINYMITES
STORY BY RAL COCHRAN — PICTURES BY KNICK

The bird that tucked the Wee-wee high up in the tree stump heaved a sigh. "Now, there," he very loudly said, "I guess you're safe and sound. Take my advice and keep real still. If you should move, you'd likely spall. I promise you 'twill be no fun to drop down to the ground."

One of the Weeones raised his head, looked at the bird and promptly said, "Well, tell us why you've put us here. This isn't any fun. And also tell us, who are you? We might forgive you if we knew. There seems no real good reason for the silly thing you've done."

"Oh, I'm the little dickens bird. I'm just about the funny tricks I play on tiny little tots. It makes me laugh to see you high up in the tree. Oh me, oh my, I know a lot of other tricks. Yes, lots and lots and lots."

"Now lots of noise I'm going to make. The Tinymites will then awake and find all of you Wee-ones gone. Oh my, won't they be mad. Then they may hear you, if you call, but that will do no good at all. They're all too short to reach you lads. Now isn't that too bad?"

And then the queer bird flew away. A Weeonee loudly shouted, "Hey!" This woke the snoozing Tinymites. Then Scouty, with a frown, said, "Look! The Weeones are up high within that tree. Oh me, oh my! What are we going to do? I fear we cannot get them down."

Soon came a noise up in the air. A bird went swishing here and there and then it perched beside the tree. Wee Scouty said, "What gall! That big woodpecker's pecking now and goodness, but he sure knows how. The Weeones are in danger 'cause he'll make the big tree fall."

(We'll find out what the Tinymites do to help, in the next story.)

RULES

1.—In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example: to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't.—TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2.—Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

 2.—The order of the letters cannot be changed.

HOOR to HAND—You should finish this hole before the HOOR HAND gets very far. Par is seven.

EVERY USED CAR WE SELL IS A

GOOD INVESTMENT FOR

THE NEBB—The Counselor

BEFORE PENROD SENT HIM TO NORTHVALE TO TUNNEL NEBB'S WELL AND PUMP IT DRY, HE SENT ONE OF HIS ALIENS, WHO OWNED A RESORT, TO MAKE A CONTRACT FOR 10 BARRELS OF "KIDNEY" A DAY AND IN THE EVENT THAT HE COULDN'T FULFILL THE CONTRACT, NEBB WAS TO FORFEIT $10,000. SO WHEN THE WELL WENT DRY, NEBB COULDN'T PRODUCE THE WATER, AND HE DID NOT HAVE $10,000 SO HE TURNED OVER THE WELL TO PENROD'S HIRELING, WHO IN TURN, GAVE IT OVER TO PENROD.

PULLING THAT JOB FOR PENROD GOT ME IN HERE AND IF IT DON'T GET ME OUT SOON I'LL BE IN HERE WITH ME. THERE'S SOMETHING ABOUT THIS JAIL BUSINESS THAT ISN'T NECESSARY TO MY CONTENTMENT.

YES, AND I REMEMBER IT WAS NO EASY JOB GETTING THAT GUY IN JAIL AND KEEPING HIM THERE.

YOU SAY THEY'VE GOT THIS FELLOW FLINT IN JAIL DOWN THERE IN NORTHVALE? IT'S PRETTY HARD TO THWART JUSTICE IN THOSE LITTLE TOWNS. YOU'D BETTER SEND FOR NEBB AND TURN BACK HIS WELL AND CALL IT A GOOD BARGAIN. BEFORE THIS FELLOW FLINT SQUEALS, AND IN THE FUTURE IF YOU GO INTO A DEAL OF THIS KIND, SEND FOR YOUR LAWYER FIRST—YOU DON'T SEND FOR A DOCTOR AFTER YOU'RE DEAD.

THAT'S JUST HOW IT HAPPENED—HE SENT FOR ME AND GAVE ME BACK THE WELL AND ACTED LIKE A LITTLE LAMB THAT WAS TRYING TO TALK A WOLF OUT OF A MEAL.

THE LIQUOR EMPIRE

The startling news comes to us today of the arrest of the leaders of a gigantic liquor ring and conspiracy, and the confiscation of a vast deal of property. The story which comes out of New York of the mammoth size of the workings of this institution is almost unbelievable. 135 deputies swooping down upon many divisional points of this rum empire, verified by actual contact that which the government had learned through other sources. Equipped with forces superior to those of some small nations, the group of outlaws defied society and the government.

It is yet too early to know of all its ramifications, but its machinations reached into the millions, and it has made a serpentine trail. It has been well known for a long time that there were those "higher-ups," and the government often was asked why they were not gotten. The real difficulty in the nation has been that there has not been a determination to enforce the prohibition law by the chief executive until the fourth day of last March, when Herbert Hoover climbed into the driver's seat and took hold of the reins. The men in the prohibition enforcement department know that back at Washington there is the man who believes that laws are to be obeyed. One does not need to support law violation by violating it himself. The public may do it by their silence; officials may do it by complacency, or permit it in those under them, and that attitude of public mind and officials is a canker that eats at the vitals of law observance and respect.

With a man, however, in the White House of the caliber and character of Hoover, there will be a tremendous rallying of all the forces that believe in the Constitution and the law. Officials will be able to do their duty and still hold their positions, in fact, they will have to do their duty in order to hold their jobs. Already the forces are feeling the strength that comes from new blood, new life and new purpose. The president recognizes that it is not a question of the success of prohibition, it is a question of whether hi-jackers and stick-up men are stronger than the government.

This ought to be a pretty clean country, the way fires, mergers, hurricanes, reforms, etc., all seem to be "sweeping."

HAPPINESS IN WORK

An honest man is entitled to happiness in his work. It is the one sure sign that he has found his true vocation. He greets his work each day with a singing heart and loves his business. Love is the greatest thing in the world, and love for one's business is a pre-requisite of success. It is the partner of success in life.

One must like his work to do it well, and usually where that attachment is lacking it is a case of the wrong job. The exceptions that prove the rule are those individuals who abhor work itself and those who can learn to love the work they think they are not fitted for.

When a young man awakes in the morning with regret that he must get up and go to work, he may well understand that a vital necessity of success and happiness is not his, and that it is high time he change his philosophy of life, his job, his diet, or his mode of living. He certainly is off the road that leads to achievement in anything.

Work brings joy to more people than any other form of human effort. Poor deluded souls lament that they must work, while they know deep down in their consciousness that they are getting more fun out of their work than out of their automobile, golf or radio. To scold and complain is human.

Because those denied the benevolence of an inheritance must work for a living, it is their duty to themselves to take for their life work that which is productive of the greatest pleasure as well as the greatest profit. Parents and tutors should advise and guide, but should never drive and coerce young men and women into a vocation which holds forth no appeal to them or for which they show no aptitude. Where there is love there will be success, because love creates eagerness to do and work and think for the thing loved.

Winter is coming. The ladies have quit wearing fur neckpieces and are taking up bead necklaces.

A NEW "GIANT INDUSTRY"

Among the giant industries of America you might list the garage business. It's a whole lot bigger than you may have suspected. A writer in the current American Architect reveals that there are more than 51,000 commercial garages in this country, representing a total investment of $3,000,000,000. This, of course, does not include the countless millions of private garages. The development of the commercial garage, incidentally, has brought vast problems for the architect. When a garage rises to a height of more than two stories, it is necessary to devote from 46 to 60 per cent of its space to ramps, driveways and other space for manipulating cars.

This, of course, is a great waste. The architects now are busy devising means of handling the problem more economically. When they do, this new giant industry will go on to an even greater prosperity.

BULGARIAN LITERACY

We here in America pride ourselves, and justly so, on the educational advantages which exist here. But we have to go some yet before we come up to Bulgaria which according to reports is the most literate country in the world. Only 23,569 of the children between 7 and 14, the total of whom are 659,253, in Bulgaria, cannot read or write. Most of the illiterates in the kingdom are Mohammedans. Ninety-nine per cent of the native Bulgarians can read and write.

When Bulgaria was liberated from Turkey in 1885 practically none of the people could read or write. Today the Bulgarian state furnishes every child a seven-year course of free elementary education, and makes it compulsory. Bulgaria, too, is known as the Puritan state of the Balkans. Its moral standards are the highest among the Balkan states.

These facts are good for us to know. Provincial minds perceive only the things that are near and immediate. To know that in Eastern Europe there is a state which has more literacy than our own may stimulate us to forge ahead and come into a leading place.

A Chicago woman filed for damages, charging a real estate man jilted her. She probably expected a lot from a man like that.

LITERATURE IN THE COOLIDGE FAMILY

Now a monthly magazine announces a series of articles by Mrs. John Coolidge, recently Miss Florence Trumbull. She is to write on how she is going to do her cooking and housekeeping on John's salary. Incidentally, the returns from these articles will probably add to the family income, and thus make housekeeping less of a problem for Mrs. John.

We confess to a growing disappointment about all these literary effusions from the Coolidge family. If Mrs. John's opinions on housekeeping were those of an expert, we should be ready to welcome her counsels in the matter. But when we remind ourselves that there are many thousands of young married women whose counsels on such matters would be inestimably more valuable, we can see no reason for this new literary output from the Coolidge family, except as it may appeal to the puerile curiosity of some of the American people who will thus help to swell the circulation of the magazine which publishes these articles.

All of which illustrates the desperate means which have to be resorted to to keep up the big circulations of our monthlies. It is a pity that there are respectable folk who will lend their names to the swelling of circulations simply for a brief notoriety and the money it brings.

Who Is to Pay for Radio Broadcasting?

San Bernardino Sun
Mutterings are abroad in the sporting world against radio broadcasts that describe in detail the particular event. There were only 29,000 baseball fans present in Philadelphia when the Athletics came home with two games of the world series tucked away.

The radio industry knows what is coming—the banning of radio from the major leagues, the world series and the big prize fights. One big radio manufacturing concern during the week ran page ads in all of the New York newspapers appealing to the public to rise up and protest against the ban on broadcasting the major prize fights. The advertisements appeal that the public write to the newspapers about it.

But the attitude of the big city newspapers is problematical. All New York morning newspapers showed big circulation increases after the Loughran-Sharkey fight. It was not broadcast. There is a possibility that the newspapers may keep their hands off the big row that is brewing.

The radio manufacturers are claiming a vested right in news. But, it is pointed out by the sport promoters, that radio does not pay at the gate.

The issue is very plain. Radio is making fortunes out of broadcasting big sporting events. The approach of the world series, for instance, greatly stimulated the purchase of radios. The broadcast of big sporting events cuts down attendance because many fans find radio a very good substitute for the real thing. Who is to pay the loss? If the radio manufacturers started on any such policy the demands would be extensive, and involve more money than the radio industry, even if it could organize itself for the purpose, would be willing to pay. The individual owners of radio sets do not intend to pay any kind of a toll for the privilege of listening. The sport promoter doesn't intend to longer give a very good substitute of his own product for nothing.

Another big struggle will be due at the next Presidential election. The news associations turned over free to the radio broadcasting companies election returns that they spent hundreds of thousands of dollars to gather. Many member newspapers of the news associations are being heard from. They pay the bills, they point out, and if radio wants to broadcast election returns then radio should dig up the money.

Up From Barbarism By Aid of Monkey Wrench

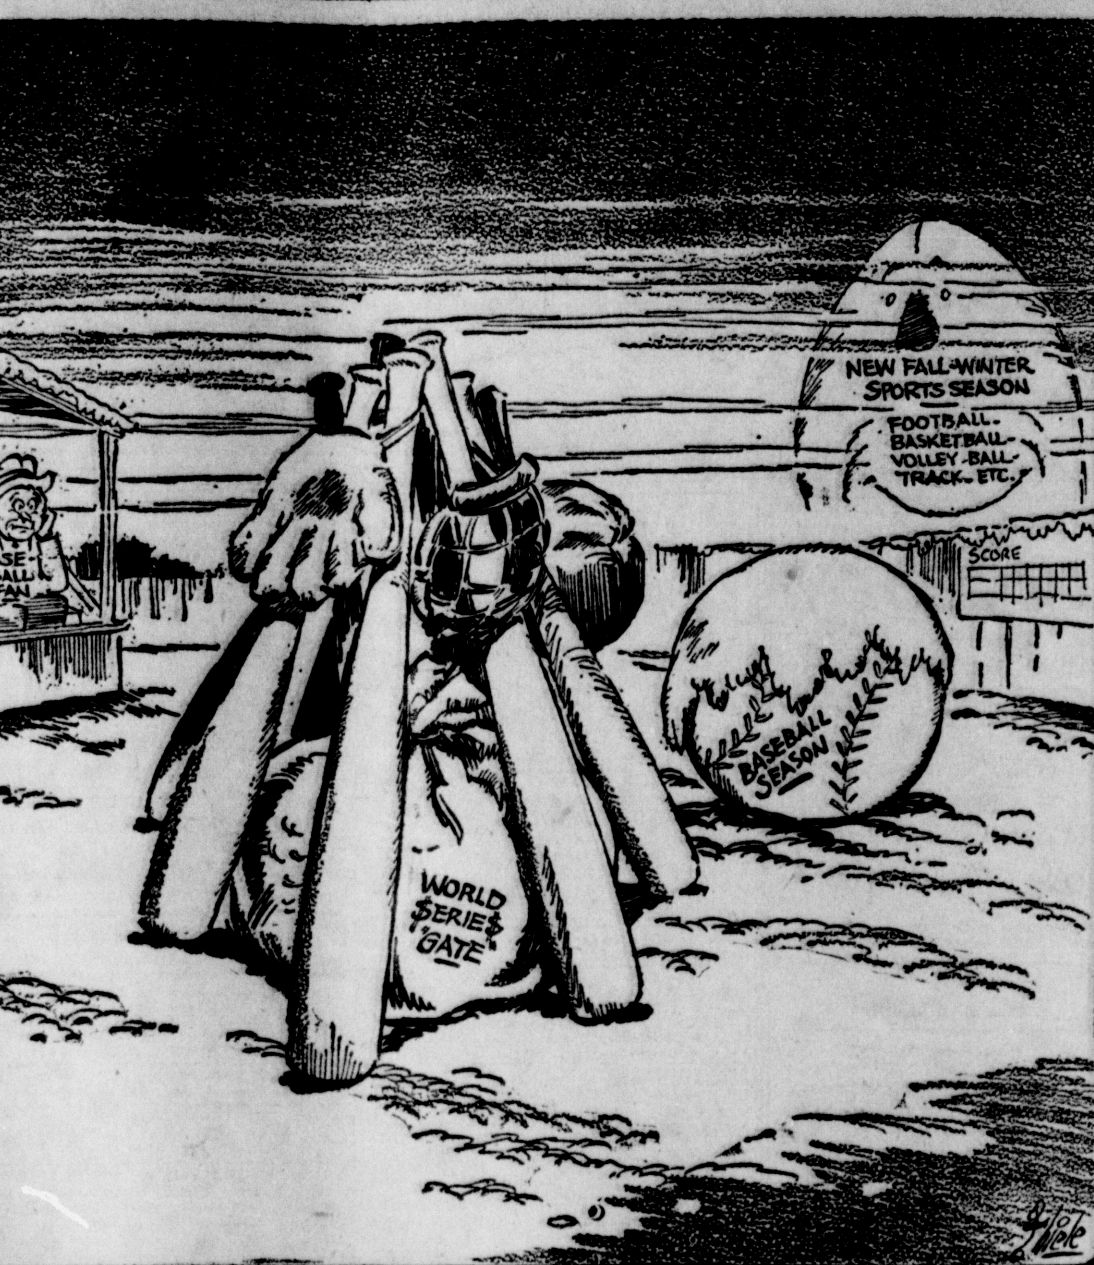

San Francisco Chronicle
Running the eye down a Department of Commerce list of American goods wanted in various quarters of the world Addis Ababa keeps popping out. Addis Ababa is the capital town of Abyssinia, the royal seat of the descendants of Solomon and the Queen of Sheba. And what is wanted in Addis Ababa, which magazine illustration commonly pictures inhabited by barefoot black folk in white cotton robes?

Much the same, it seems, as is required in Swan Prairie, Neb., or Estacado, Tex. The commercial demands of Addis Ababa run to automobile accessories, spare parts and garage equipment and supplies, motorcycles, flashlights, batteries and battery supplies, office safes with combination locks, tailors' cloth-cutting machines, oils and greases, tires and tubes, bly leys, filing cabinets and photographic supplies.

Barbaric Abyssinia! Perhaps it is so still. But it is a barbarism evidently rapidly growing familiar punctures, blowouts, valve grinding, knocks in the cylinders and oil smeared on its flowing cotton robes.

The marvel of the age is the sight of these barbaric backwaters of the world stepping at one stride across the centuries into the modern mechanical era.

THE BLAZED TRAIL

I know the bird lore people say
The feathered wanderers find their way

From northern wood to southern fen
By instinct which is past our ken.

But yet when trails of gold and red
Each day still farther South are spread

When oak and maple blaze a trail
Above which any bird can sail

And safely speed from day to day
Along a glowing rainbow way.

While when each airy flight is done
They always find a warmer sun.

Until they hear the alien cries
Of birds that flock 'neath warmer skies.

How can they ever fall to know
The sure and certain way to go?

If such a trail were blazed for me
From Arctic ice to sunlit sea

I'd hold my course direct and true
And gentle reader, so would you.

Such trails cannot be hard to find
Unless the birds are color blind.

Seats For the Harvard Yale Game

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

Seats for the Harvard-Yale football game are now being sold. But not to the highest bidders. The seats are allotted to a favored list at a fixed price. Those who receive them are not allowed to resell them, on penalty of being black-listed and denied tickets in the future.

The object of the black-list is to prevent speculation. If Harvard-Yale tickets were sold as most things are sold, all but fifty-seven thousand bidders would be eliminated. What the price would be, nobody knows.

Since bidding is not allowed, the seats have to be distributed on some other basis.

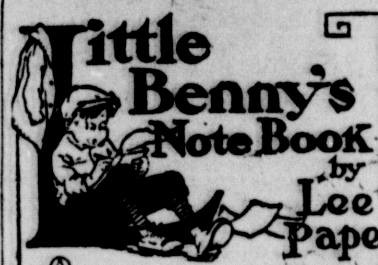

But liver, pig-iron, cigars, fur coats, and a hundred thousand other things for which buyers compete with each other, cannot be distributed at fixed prices by the Harvard-Yale plan.

The Government could not fix prices for all these things, declare them "non-transferable," and enforce the rule by a black-list for millions of people. To carry out such a plan, the Government would have to draft half the adult population as clerks and policemen.

And even this would not prevent speculation!

There is no speculation in seats on Chicago elevated trains, solely because there is no way of buying and reselling the seats. But it would be impossible to prevent the resale of most things. Those who bought them at the fixed prices would resell them at higher prices—as much higher as buyers would pay.

That is why most goods, unlike football tickets, must be distributed on the basis of price-bidding.

Yestiddy in skool Miss Kitty was telling the class about the bewties of nature and especially the sun, and how it rises every morning and sets every nite and everything. Miss Kitty saying, the best poets all tell us that there is nothing more glorious or inspiring than a sunrise early in the morning. Of course most of us have an aversion to getting up before it is absolutely necessary, especially on these chilly mornings such as we are having now, but to anybody with poetic instincts the site of a beautiful sunset is sufficient reward. Now I'll tell you what I'll do, I'll offer 3 prizes to the 3 boys who get up to see the sunrise tomorrow morning and write the 3 best little poems on their sensations, she said.

And this morning she asked if anybody had saw the sunrise and 3 fellows raised their hands yes, being me and Skinny Martin and Sid Hunt, Miss Kitty saying, Well I'm glad we have at least a few boys in our mist with higher aspirations. Allowishes Martin may read his first.

Wich Skinny did, being

The Sunrise

The top of the sun is the first part up.
For the rest the houses hide,
And hark, do I hear music?
Yes, the milkman's bottles rattling side by side.

The first 3 lines are the most poetic, I must say, Miss Kitty said. Benny will now read his, she said. Wich I did, being

The Sunrise

The sun is up! The sun is up!
When I open my eyes I see it,
But I don't get up till 8 o'clock,
So I'd rather see it than be it.

I fear that's more about the poet than about the sun, now it's Sidneys turn she said. And Sid Hunt red his, being

The Sunrise

The sun, the sun! I see its beams
Appear over yonder horizon,
My duty is done, so back I go
To the bed my small brother still lies in.

The 3 prizes being 3 yellow pencils, not being as much as we expected but better than nothing.

Thoughts On Modern Life

WHAT MAKES AN EXECUTIVE?

Yesterday I attempted a digest of the result of Donald A. Laird's study of the traits that are and the traits that are not essential to strong executive leadership. Yesterday I listed nineteen things this research suggests as vital to great executive leadership. Here are some of the things which, in the light of Mr. Laird's study, we may say of the strong executive leader:

He knows how wisely to delegate responsibility.

He knows how to make his workers realize the importance of their work.

He likes to make decisions.

He knows how to keep a group working for a common goal.

He can size an individual's capacity for work with fair accuracy.

He has a voice that suggests confidence regardless of its pitch or modulation.

These six things are the most vital, but to them we may add the following:

He looks for new and improved methods.

He reads widely about his work.

He saves duplicate effort.

He expresses opinions without apologizing for them.

He accepts criticism without getting angry.

He keeps his spirit up when things are not going well.

He knows how to arouse competition among his workers.

He mixes easily socially.

He has good judgment in price values.

He knows how to praise work without flattery.

He knows how to criticize constructively without antagonizing the man he criticizes.

He makes an effort to have the reasons for his orders understood by the men to whom they are given.

He keeps a firm hold on a difficult situation without becoming unreasonable.

He can concentrate under difficult conditions.

He assumes responsibility for his own blunders.

He uses facts rather than opinions in reaching decisions.

He examines his own decisions critically before accepting them as final.

He makes decisions quickly, but does not go off half-cocked.

And a little further down the scale of importance, we may add the following:

He is consistent in dealing with people.

He keeps careful watch of his competitors.

He keeps in touch with job practices elsewhere.

He has a high intrinsic sense of right and wrong, but is not preachy.

He enjoys a good joke.

He enjoys the possession of authority.

He looks people square in the eye.

Here is a rather challenging yardstick by which to measure ourselves.

OUR CHILDREN

CLEAN HANDS

Miss June was a young teacher. This was her first class, her first term of actual classroom experience. For some mistaken reason she had been assigned the beginners' grade. That grade needs a highly trained, thoroughly experienced teacher because it is the time and the place to lay sound educational foundations. But here was Miss June in this trying position and she must do her best to hold it.

The supervisor of drawing sat at the desk turning over the drawings the little folk had made. They were intended to represent autumn leaves in a wind. They were colorful and lively but dirty was no name for them. The supervisor's face settled into cloudy gloom. At length she stood up to go and in answer to the young teacher's questioning look said severely, "These may be good drawings. I cannot say really what they are because they are so very dirty. The dirtiest papers I have ever handled."

Poor Miss June was crushed. She had worked hard at that lesson. She had coaxed and urged and persuaded the little clutching perspiring hands to strive for a bit of beauty and the whole weary business ended in a crisp criticism. "Dirty." When the last little beginner fled out of the room Miss June laid her head on her arms and wept.

Miss Maria, old in the service and wise in the ways of supervisors stepped briskly to the dropping little figure at the desk. She sat on the desk nearest and waited. When Miss June lifted her head and wiped her eyes Miss

Maria said, "Well, what's the matter?"

"She said my drawings were dirty. It wasn't so much what she said as the way she said it. Dirty," as if she meant me."

"Fiddlesticks," said Miss Maria. "You must never take a supervisor's words personally. The drawings were dirty. That's all. You have to do what you can to keep them clean."

"How can I when their hands are so dirty?"

"True. They always are. We have to get around it somehow."

We have various tricks in the trade. You warn them they are going home at noon that they are to draw when they come back so they must have clean hands. Then you stand at the door when they return and send anybody who has dirty hands over to the sink to wash them."

"But there is no soap, and no towels, and hardly any water."

"I know. There never is. Then you send home cards asking for cooperation. You inspect hands every morning and afternoon. You talk, talk about cleanliness and praise all those who have clean hands. You put up the clean drawings where all can see them."

You drill cleanliness from Monday morning to Friday night and then begin again Monday morning. But you don't cry about it."

"But—think of all the time. Think of all the energy. Why can't we have wash basins and soap and water and towels when cleanliness takes up so much space in the program?"

"Why? Parents' association. Mothers' clubs, please answer."

and was denied a court-martial.

Burgoyne went over to the Opposition party and resigned his appointments; but on a change of ministry at the close of the American war he was appointed commander-in-chief in Ireland.

BURGOYNE SURRENDERS

British General Burgoyne's campaign into New York state from Canada ended disastrously on Oct. 17, 1777, when he surrendered with about 5000 men to American General Gates at Saratoga.

Burgoyne landed in America early in 1777, having been placed in charge of a powerful expedition of about 10,000 men with orders to penetrate into New York state from Canada, march south along the valley of the Hudson and join General Howe's forces, so as to divide the American confederacy in half.

The British general captured Tiiconderoga on July 6, but on Aug. 16 a detachment of his army was almost annihilated. He was decisively defeated twice at Stillwater and surrendered on Oct. 17.

Burgoyne's surrender was an important victory for the colonists and has been termed the turning point in the revolution.

Washington permitted Burgoyne to return to England, but he was refused an audience with the king.
